NUMBER OF MINOR AUTO ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED

Minor Crashes In Different Sections of City Damage Are Not Serious

What happens when two automobiles try to occupy the same spot simultaneously was illustrated this past week-end a number of times in Glendale.

Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock Clarence Webb of 1229 East Colorado street was driving south on San Fernando road. Near the intersection of Broadway a car driven by S. A. Gage of 618½ North Gage street, stopped suddenly and, although Mr. Webb applied both foot and hand brakes, he could not avoid hitting the rear of Mr. Gage's machine. A broken rear light and a bent bumper was the total damage.

Saturday night at 7 o'clock the left fender on the automobile of Burdett C. Rockhold of 330 Burchett street was dented by a machine driven by Charles W. Cramer of 316 South Adams street.

Smashed by Truck

Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock the left front fender on a touring car driven by Miss Ruth E. Smith of 4202 Verdugo road, Los Angeles was smashed by a truck driven by George Tyker of Los Angeles. He promised to pay for the damage. Miss Smith asserted that he cut directly in front of her.

Central and Park avenue was the scene of a collision yesterday morning between a truck driven by Van Tassell of 1745 Camulos street and an automobile driven by Gordon W. Bevans of 226 West Chestnut street. Drivers of both cars asserted that they did not see the other car approaching on account of other cars in the center of the street. Four spokes in one of the rear wheels of the touring car were broken. The truck was uninjured.

Fenders Damaged

Automobiles driven by Charles D. Holliday of 529 Fairmont street and A. E. Gowen of 141 North Grand avenue, Pasadena, collided late yesterday afternoon at Colorado and Central avenue. Neither of the occupants was injured.

The right fender of the automobile owned by P. S. Kellogg of 614 North Melrose street was damaged by a machine driven by J. O. McKelven of 7026 Hollywood boulevard, last night.

R. D. White Speaks to Wilson Pupils

Armistice Day was celebrated at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school Friday afternoon with a school assembly at which Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, was the speaker. Preceding the introduction of Mr. White, the school orchestra played several selections.

Superintendent White outlined for the pupils the causes that led up to the declaration of war by Austria in 1914, gave a brief summary of conditions at the time the United States entered the conflict and showed the results of the United States' part in the struggle. He told the events that took place on the day the armistice was actually signed and urged his audience to "rejoice on Armistice Day because it is a day on which we celebrate the victory of the right in the most terrible and destructive war in the history of the world."

Quartet Entertains at Church Tonight

The California Jubilee Quartet will entertain at the First M. E. church tonight, under the auspices of the Epworth league. Admission will be free, but there will be a silver offering. A special feature of the entertainment will be the rendition of genuine old plantation melodies. Those who heard these melodious negroes last year are certain to be on hand this time, the committee believes. In addition, it is to be hoped that many more will avail themselves of this opportunity to enjoy a rare treat. Good male quartets are always popular but there is something especially pleasing in the music of genuine colored singers and players, that touches a responsive chord in the heart of every listener, the committee says.

Musicians to Provide Program, Elks Lodge

Edwin J. Albright, vocalist, and Lewis A. Kerwin, pianist, are to furnish an entertainment program tonight at the regular meeting of the local Elks' lodge.

Mr. Albright has appeared before the lodge members many times and the announcement of his appearance on programs is always received with great pleasure. Mr. Kerwin, in addition to giving piano solos, will accompany Mr. Albright.

Local Stores Are The Mirror Of The Community; They Are Deserving Of Full Support

Prospective home owners and visiting strangers judge a city by its business district. At least they form their first impression by the business activity of a town, and first impressions are lasting. The general appearance of the stores, the merchandise displayed, the service rendered, the prices, the efficiency of the clerks are taken into consideration, and, without further inquiry, the city is labelled "up-to-date" or "back-number."

An easterner looking for a home for his family alights from a car at the corner of Brand and Broadway, Glendale. If he knows no one he walks up and down the business streets and visits stores, real estate offices, newspaper offices and other places, making inquiries. If he finds progressive business men, a good quality of merchandise, finds the stores filled with buyers and meets with courteous treatment he makes inquiries about schools and churches, public utilities and general living conditions.

Glendale is a home city and it is likely the very place he is looking for—good schools, churches of all denominations, good water, utilities at reasonable prices, healthful altitude, etc. But if the business section is not up to his standard he may not be interested enough to inquire about these other things and he seeks further for a home.

So, very often, the business life of a city is the determining factor in securing new residents.

And this rule works both ways. The larger per cent of residents who are imbued with home town loyalty, the more metropolitan the business section. Increase in patronage means larger and better business houses, a better class of merchandise and a wider selection, more competent help and prices that meet big city competition.

The thing works in a circle.

Up-to-date business houses attract new residents.

New residents increase real estate values.

Property owners benefit by increased real estate values.

Loyal property owners buy at home and their trade helps the home merchant to better meet outside competition and so attract new people.

Many Glendale people have a sense of loyalty that prompts them to trade with Glendale merchants, but leaving this element out of the question it is to their interest to do so.

MAKE PLANS FOR SOCIETY CIRCUS

Many Unique Features Will Be Offered at Event on Saturday, Nov. 18

Each announcement with regard to the Tuesday Afternoon club Society Circus on Saturday, Nov. 18, at the Elks club house but adds an attractive feature to the event and adds a bit of interest to the anticipation of the affair.

Elaborate plans were announced this morning for the dinner to be served from 5:30 till 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening under the direction of Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth. During the dinner hour the diners are to be entertained with a cabaret program featured by the dancing of "La-Zingana" (Carl Bohm) by Kathleen Woods, Orpheum and Pantages artist; and an Arabian dance by George Eckland of the Douglas dancers of Seattle, Wash. Mrs. J. A. Wright and orchestra will furnish the accompaniment and there will be a colorful oriental setting for the entertainment.

Unique Shoe Shine.

Other things announced today by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, general chairman, were dancing on two floors of the club house under the direction of Mrs. Walter Jones, with special prizes; afternoon and evening bowling contests directed by Mrs. Max Green, with special prizes; cards directed by Mrs. Julian Hayward, with special prizes; a hot dog stand managed by Mrs. Harry James; and a shoe shining parlor arranged by Mrs. Charles Parker, who promises Glendalians the most unique shoe shine they ever had.

Glendale merchants have cooperated most heartily with the club women and are offering countless interesting prizes for the various events.

Rev. D. M. Barr to Organize New Church

Rev. D. M. Barr has come to Glendale from Williams, Cal., to organize a Methodist Church, South. Rev. Barr was recently appointed by the bishop and the church has purchased the property belonging to the First Presbyterian church at Cedar street and Broadway.

Rev. Barr, who is a Vanderbilt university graduate, came to California five years ago and has served the past year as pastor of a church at Williams. He announces that any Glendale people interested in the organization of a Methodist Church, South, call to see him at 1232 Orange Grove avenue.

Mrs. Ralph Davis Bitten by Big Dog

Mrs. Ralph Davis of 1014 South Brand boulevard about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon was bitten by a large black dog while in the vicinity of Granada street and Windsor road.

GET ACQUAINTED! MEETING SLOGAN

C. of C. Women Ready for Big Time for Dinner and Forum Session

All members of the Chamber of Commerce are to be acquainted after tomorrow night if the women's plans for their dinner and forum work out as cleverly as they anticipate. The women completed their plans today and they are looking forward to entertaining 250 Chamber of Commerce members and friends.

According to plans, the guests are to meet at 6:15 o'clock for twenty minutes of informal sociability, featured by unique "get acquainted" entertainment.

Various Speakers

After the dinner hour V. M. Hollister, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will present Dr. Jessie Russell to preside over the women's program. She will introduce as honored guests and speakers Florence Collins Porter, formerly California representative on the national Republican committee and also one-time president of the California Federation of Women's clubs, who will speak on "Women's Place in Public Affairs;" and Miss Eleanor Miller, head of the Emerson School of Self-Expression in Pasadena, and the first woman legislator to be elected from southern California, who will speak on "Woman of the Twentieth Century."

There will also be vocal numbers by Mrs. Harry M. MacMullin and Mina Winzell, accompanied by Pearl Curran.

Announcement of the supper states that "each person is requested to wear his or her business card and adhere to the 'rules of the game' after arrival." Furthermore, reservations for members or guests should be made by 5 o'clock today at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Intermediate School Raises New Flag

A beautiful new flag was raised Friday at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school in honor of Armistice day. A fine pole, seventy-five feet high, had been placed previously. Exercises were conducted by the principal, Norman R. Whytock. The pupils were lined up in order and sang the "Star Spangled Banner," while the flag moved up the rope and gracefully unfurled to the breeze. At the conclusion of the ceremony the pupils gave the flag salute. Pupils assisted with the flag-raising were Melville Walker anad Harold Campbell.

TWO VESSELS SINK

ASTORIA, Ore., Nov. 13.—Investigation is being conducted today to determine blame for two collisions in the Columbia river which resulted in the sinking of the steam schooner Halco, lumber-laden from St. Helens for San Pedro, and the steamer Cricket yesterday.

The Halco's stem was smashed below the water line following a collision with the motor ship Challambra, carrying lumber from Portland for South America. The accident occurred near Altoona. The Halco lies at the bottom of the river and the Challambra is at Astoria terminals.

BOY SCOUTS TO AID CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK HERE

Lads In Co-operation With Glendale Public Library In Local Campaign

Under the slogan "Happy is the child with books," the fourth annual Children's Book Week which is a national event, started yesterday all over the country and will hold forth until November 18.

Public libraries, bookstores, mothers' clubs, Parent-Teachers' associations, schools, churches, Boy Scout organizations, and other organizations concerned with children, each year take the opportunity of this week to emphasize the importance of books for boys and girls.

Exhibits of books to buy for children, discussion of the books children really like to read, distribution of lists of books for young people, consideration of authors and illustrators who are devoting their talents to children's books—these are some of the features of the week which will be observed in Glendale this year.

Come to Reading Age

Each year over a million children come to reading age. "What books shall we buy for our children?" is a question every parent should endeavor to solve conscientiously. The schools teach the children to read, the public libraries give opportunity to boys and girls for forming the habit of reading and for developing good taste in books.

A growing appreciation of the importance of children's reading is marked in the bookstores, and the book publishers of the country are leading the world in the production of interesting and beautiful books for boys and girls.

The books that actually go into the forming of a child's library are the ones that form his growing taste. His ability to use books for information and for pleasure when he is grown older, depends on his acquiring the reading habit when he is a child.

The local Boy Scout organization in co-operation with the Glendale Public library is planning a gala evening for Saturday, November 18. This will be known as Boy Scout day and all the scouts of the Verdugo Hills district are invited to the main library where a delightfully arranged program will be held with John S. McGroarty, noted writer-traveler and father of the Mission Play, as the stellar attraction. There is not a boy or girl in Glendale who has witnessed that famous play who has not wished to meet and shake hands with its delightful author. Mr. McGroarty is a big booster for the Boy Scouts and declared that "I consider it a great honor and pleasure to be privileged to talk to these manly fellows."

In addition to the Boy Scouts, arrangements have been made by Mrs. J. C. Danford, manager of the Glendale Library, and Scout Executive Harold Benner, whereby all the school children in Glendale will be invited to the library on the closing night of Children's Book Week to hear Mr. McGroarty talk.

Stanford Professor Addresses Teachers

"We pass a thousand times things that are beautiful without seeing them until they are called to our attention by some poet or artist!"

Prof. L. E. Bassett of Stanford university emphasized this fact with poetical quotations this morning in the high school auditorium before grammar and high school teachers of the district at their all-day session of institute.

"I don't wonder so many students hate Shakespeare," asserted Professor Bassett, commenting on the manner in which the works of the Bard of Avon are taught by many teachers. He feels strongly that literature is an art and should be taught as such and not as a science to be dissected and put under the microscope.

Prof. C. E. Rugh, instructor in the department of education at the University of California, is the speaker this afternoon.

Girl Will Undergo Serious Operation

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Ortiz of 1330 North Maryland avenue are entertaining as guests Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jones and Miss Lenore Van Luvanee of New York City. Mrs. Ortiz and Mrs. Jones are sisters.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ortiz will be sorry to learn that their little daughter Inez will undergo a serious operation tomorrow morning at the Orthopedic hospital in Los Angeles. The operation, which will be performed by Dr. Leroy Lowman, will result in her being in a plaster paris cast for three months.

LEAPS BEFORE TRAIN

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Leaping in front of a Santa Fe freight train en route to this city from San Pedro early today, J. B. Hughes, also known as J. C. Brown, was struck by the locomotive, receiving injuries which probably will cause his death.

BARBARA J. PHILP YOUNGEST TO BE IN RED CROSS

Born October 30, 1922, She Joins Last Saturday, on First Roll Call

To little Miss Barbara Jean Philp, born October 30, 1922, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Philp of 650 North Kenwood street, goes the honor of being the youngest member of Glendale's Red Cross chapter. She is numbered among the first twenty-five Glendale residents to join the Red Cross on Saturday, the first day of the annual roll call.

Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of the roll call, and her assistant chairman of the city precincts and their team members are prepared to spend the next two weeks in a house to house canvass and after that time they plan a general drive.

Precinct Chairmen

The precinct chairmen and their precinct numbers are announced as: Mrs. E. H. Botsford, one; Mrs. E. S. Dodds, two; Mrs. C. L. Chandler, three; Mrs. William Pelley, four; Mrs. James Fife, five; Mrs. H. C. Vandewater, six; Mrs. J. W. Andree, seven; Mrs. George Postle, eight; Mrs. J. S. Hayward, nine; Mrs. Gerhard Kaemmerling, ten; Mrs. C. P. Perry, eleven; Mrs. H. C. Ackley, twelve; Mrs. Harry James, thirteen; Mrs. Peter Diederich, fourteen; Mrs. John P. King, fifteen; Mrs. John H. Daugherty, sixteen; Mrs. George Whitaker, seventeen; Mrs. Lillian Aichholz, eighteen; Mrs. Benjamin Holbrook, nineteen; Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth, twenty; Mrs. Winona Crawford, twenty-one; Mrs. Frank Chambers, twenty-two; Mrs. W. B. Alexander, twenty-three; Mrs. Joseph H. Webster, twenty-four; Mrs. William T. Ward, twenty-five; Mrs. O. W. Esselman, twenty-six, and Mrs. Guy W. Phinney, twenty-seven.

Mrs. R. A. Blackburn is to be in charge of the headquarters in the Glendale Savings bank every day from 10 till 2 o'clock.

Revival Under Way at Central Christian

The revival meetings at the Central Christian church started off yesterday with the largest crowds the church has ever had. The morning service was followed out as usual, but at night the Conners had charge of a patriotic opening service that was well received. Members of the G. A. R. occupied special seats. The church was draped with American flags. Patriotic songs were sung with the leadership of the large chorus choir of forty voices. Mrs. Helen Conner Nern, costumed as the Goddess of Liberty gave a pantomime of the Star Spangled Banner, as it was being sung by Mrs. Conner. A new song, written by John C. Stewart, 549 Oak street, and which was sung by the boys in France, was rendered by Mr. Conner. It was entitled, "While We Were Sailing to Somewhere."

Tonight, the real revival services will begin. Rev. Clifford A. Cole, who is doing the preaching, will speak on the topic, "Who is this Christ?" The Conners will have full charge of the song service. A general invitation is extended by Rev. Cole to those who are interestd.

GIRL WILL RECOVER DESPITE NECK BEING BROKEN

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Despite a broken neck and other serious injuries received Saturday when the airplane in which she was riding crashed to the ground, Miss Fern Lattimer will recover, according to county hospital doctors. The pilot of the plane and another man were slightly injured.

VACCINATION REQUIREMENT UPHELD BY COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The supreme court of the United States today upheld the validity of legislation and city ordinances which compel the vaccination of children against disease as a school entrance requirement. The supreme court denied claims for damages and declared the ordinances legal.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC WINS DECISION IN U. S. COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Southern Pacific railroad won in the supreme court of the United States today its suit to declare valid a permit by the secretary of war to build a bridge across the Sacramento river in California. The decision of the California higher court setting aside the permit for delay was reversed.

U. S. SUPREME COURT MAY TEST LEGALITY OF ACT

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—An attempt will be made to take the question of the legality of the act abolishing future trading in grain direct to the United States supreme court, it was announced today at the inception of the hearing of the temporary injunction obtained by the Chicago Board of Trade which prevents the government from forcing the act.

HIGH POLICE OFFICIAL, POISONED, TO RECOVER

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Sir William Horwood, commissioner of the Metropolitan police, who was poisoned by arsenic impregnated candy sent to him through the mails in a "murder plot," is now out of danger, it was announced by Scotland Yard today. Detectives said they had no definite clues that would lead to an immediate arrest. It is understood a woman is being sought.

PREDICTS SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL WILL PASS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A soldirs' bonus bill, acceptable alike to the veteran and to the country, will be enacted into law by the sixty-eighth congress, American Legion officials declared here today in making public tabulations showing overwhelming majorities in both houses in favor of the compensation legislation. The recent election, according to John T. Taylor, vice chairman of the Legion's national legislative committee, was a "stupendous victory" for the ex-soldiers.

AUTO HITS STONE WALL; ONE HURT, ONE INJURED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Injured when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a stone wall and was demolished at Tenth street and Park View avenue early today, M. Riddle, former publicity man of the Famous-Players Lasky studio, was taken to the city jail on a charge of reckless driving, and Frank Davis, also formerly with Lasky's, suffered a fractured skull. Davis, who was taken to the receiving hospital in an unconscious condition, revived on the operating table and had to be strapped down. Later he was strapped in bed to prevent him from injuring himself, but he extricated himself from his bonds and escaped. He was found partly clad at the Pacific Electric station, Sixth and Main streets, by the police. Riddle suffered cuts about the hands and face.

PROMISE STARTLING DEVELOPMENT IN SHOOTING

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Casting aside all previous theories of the shooting of Mrs. Claudia Sorrenson, dentist's beautiful wife, and former film actress, police declared today they are working on a solution of the mysterious affair that will prove so startling they hesitate to reveal it before an expected arrest is made. An intimation was contained in statements by detectives that charges of an attempted murder against C. B. Smith, former hotel man, who was arrested shortly after Mrs. Sorrenson was taken to a hospital in a critical condition, will be dropped. "Two persons who have not entered the case before have supplied me with intimate details regarding the mysterious shooting that authorities have heretofore lacked," declared Detective Sergeant Cahill today. That Mrs. Sorrenson was not shot while seated in an automobile, Detective Sergeant Cahill said he could establish beyond doubt.

NUMBER OF JAPS TO LOSE CITIZENSHIP, CLAIM

SARATOGA, Cal., Nov. 13.—"The decision of the supreme court today will have many important bearings on the Japanese question in California and on the Pacific coast," former United States Senator James D. Phelan declared today when informed by the International News Service of the decision. "From the scope of the decision as indicated by dispatches, I believe it will have the very important effect of taking citizenship away from some 900 or 1000 Japanese who were granted naturalization by reason of their service in the army or navy. During the war congress passed a measure to facilitate naturalization of persons who entered the service. It was not intended to cover Japanese but a number of them have taken advantage of the provision. If their status as citizens had been upheld it would have been possible for them to buy land and hold it in California despite our anti-alien land laws. The position taken by the United States supreme court that our naturalization laws have not been repealed, will, I believe, result in the revocation of naturalization papers granted under the army bill. The decision cannot help but have a very important effect in upholding the position taken by the state of California in passing laws restricting land ownership."

JAPS NOT OF WHITE RACE, RULES SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Japanese are not of the "white" race and under federal laws are not entitled to citizenship by naturalization, the United States supreme court today decided. The opinion of the supreme court sets at rest a vigorously contested dispute which arose on the Pacific coast and which has waged there for years. Associate Justice Sutherland delivered the decision of the court, it being his first opinion since becoming a member of the court. The supreme court held that the federal statute limiting naturalization to free white persons and Africans or those of African descent had not been repealed or modified by any subsequent legislation and that Japanese are not of the Caucasian race. The court affirmed a decision by Washington state courts holding this open. In another decision today the supreme court also affirmed a decision of Washington state courts denying to Japanese articles of incorporation for a Japanese estate holding company on the ground Japanese were not entitled to citizenship by naturalization. Decision as to the "color" of the Japanese and eligibility to naturalization as a citizen of the United States under a federal statute limiting naturalization to white persons and Africans or those of African descent was asked of the United States supreme court in the appealed cases of Takakosewa of Honolulu, and Yamashita, of Washington state.

LARGE PROGRAM IS COMPLETED FOR TUESDAY CLUB

Busy Afternoon for Members Will Include Ceremonies at New Building

"In an Old Fashioned Garden" is the title of the program arranged for presentation tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club at the Masonic temple at 2:30 o'clock by the Music Section of the club. Laying Cornerstone.

Tuesday Afternoon club members and friends are to meet at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the new club house at the corner of Central avenue and Lexington drive for the ceremony of laying the cornerstone. Honored guests and speakers will be Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, vice president at large of the California Federation of Women's clubs, and John Hyde Braly, prominent Glendale resident.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, will preside, and Rev. C. M. Calderwood will give the invocation and Mrs. Greeley Kolts of Los Angeles will sing.

There will be placed in the cornerstone a list of the life members by Mrs. A. P. Findlay, copies of the year books by past presidents or their representatives, and the Glendale Evening News by A. T. Cowan.

Earl W. Rumsey to Be Speaker Tonight

Earl W. Rumsey, assistant probation officer of Los Angeles county, will be the main speaker tonight at the November meeting of the troop leaders round table which will be held at the Eagle Rock Central school. All scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, troop committeemen and commissioners are urged to attend the meeting tonight as there will be many things to discuss of interest to scoutmen.

Those leaders not having machines are invited to meet at the District Scout Office, 108 East Broadway, Glendale, where cars will be furnished for their transportation to Eagle Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Akin Arrive From Tacoma

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Akin arrived here Saturday, after a delightful six-day motor trip from Tacoma, Wash. They are visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hitchcock at the Glendale apartments. Mrs. Hitchcock is their daughter.

Mr. Akin, who plans to be in this vicinity for three months, has already become so enthusiastic over Glendale real estate that he is thinking of buying property here. He is the owner of dancing academies in Tacoma and Seattle and has made a study of realty values.

Two Injured When Cycle and Auto Hit

C. P. May of 154 North Hudson street, Pasadena, had a finger broken last Saturday when the motorcycle on which he was riding collided at Kenwood and Colorado streets with a Ford touring car driven by W. B. Kirk of 404 East Broadway. Miss M. McGregor of 345 West California avenue, Pasadena, was a passenger on the motorcycle and was severely cut.

HOUSE SHORTAGE IS REPORTED IN 121 CITIES

Figures Are Received From National Realty Board By J. B. Brown

J. B. Brown, president of the Eagle Rock Realty Board, just received some interesting data compiled by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with headquarters in Chicago.

The real estate, building and general financial condition of 184 cities scattered throughout the United States and Canada were used in gathering the information and making the survey, and Eagle Rock was one of the cities named.

The survey disclosed that out of the entire number of cities named, there was a shortage of houses in 121 cities. A moderate shortage was reported in fifty-three which were mostly cities in the southern part of the United States.

Lists Eagle Rock

The list showed that Eagle Rock was among those cities that showed a shortage of houses, and this fact was backed up by Mr. Brown, who stated that, notwithstanding the large number of buildings being erected in this city, they are occupied almost at completion.

Of the 121 cities that reported a shortage of houses, every one of them, according to the survey, was experiencing a building boom; their record for building permits being almost double this year of what they were during the preceding twelve months.

Corrects Error

In listing the building permits for Eagle Rock Friday, C. W. Preston was listed as being issued a permit to build a five-room residence at 102 Los Robles avenue, at an estimated cost of $2000. Mr. Preston states that an error was made as the house is to cost him $3000. The Eagle Rock Daily News gladly corrects the error.

O. J. Root Addresses Improvement Meet

O. J. Root, president of the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce, was the chief speaker at the West End Improvement association's meeting Friday evening.

Mr. Root spoke on the work of the chamber for the coming year, and of the relative part the civic organizations must play in the community. He also touched upon the various problems that now confront the city, as well as the needs that exist at present.

Musical entertainment was supplied by Mrs. Ludlow at the piano. Mrs. F. Custer sang several vocal numbers. Mrs. Custer, who is a new resident of Eagle Rock, made her debut appearance before a local audience.

EAGLE ROCK CLUB TO PRESENT BIG FARCE COMEDY

'The Man From Mexico' to Be Staged at Central School House

The entire cast of "The Man From Mexico," the farce comedy to be presented by the Eagle Rock Community Players, will stage a dress rehearsal at the Central school house tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

This play has been declared by many to be one of the best the Community Players have attempted. It has been entirely rewritten by Judge Harold Ide Cruzan and practice has been held for the past two months.

A chorus composed of Eagle Rock young ladies under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Jones will present some exceedingly novel numbers. Costumes are reported to be gorgeous and far out of the ordinary.

This farce comedy, in the original of which the famous actor William Collier starred, is to be presented Wednesday and Thursday evening, November 15-16, in the auditorium of the Central school house. Elgie Lowry Fischer, director of the Eagle Rock Community Players, predicts a large attendance at both performances.

G. B. Reynolds Now Head of Auto Firm

Real efficiency of a high character marks the operation of the Westinghouse Service Station at 306 South Glendale avenue under the management of G. B. Reynolds.

Since Mr. Reynolds assumed charge of the busines some few weeks ago, improved service has been his only purpose. To carry out this idea some radical changes were necessary in the plan of operation.

Additional equipment has been installed which is effectually eliminating time waste. This advantage redounds to both the advantage of the customer and the operating concern. New batteries as well as battery changes are made in a period of a few short minutes.

Adjustments are promptly and cheerfully made on the well known Westinghous battery at this station no matter where purchased. According to Mr. Reynolds the Westinghouse now carries what is probably the strongest guarantee of any battery manufactured.

The purchaser is given eighteen months of guaranteed service, and is welcome to call at the service station as often as he likes for service, and there is no strings attached to the guarantee, if the battery goes wrong its adjusted on the spot.

W. D. Page of Eagle Rock Passes Away

Mr. Page had been a resident of Eagle Rock for about six months, coming from Fort Wayne, Ind., where for almost forty years he was publisher of the Fort Wayne News, said to be the largest Republican newspaper in that state. He also held important positions under both the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Page of Eagle Rock, and a daughter, Mrs. T. B. Wright, of San Diego, and a grandson, George Page Willey of Eagle Rock.

Mr. Page's death is said to be the result of an operation performed some years ago, from which he never fully recovered. Funeral services are to be held tomorrow, the exact time to be announced later, at the Emanuel church in Los Angeles, following which the remains will be sent to San Diego for burial. C. F. Lamb & Sons, local undertakers, are in charge.

Woman's Club Gives Afternoon Luncheon

It was "Occidental Day" at the luncheon given Thursday afternoon at Eagle Rock Twentieth Century Woman's club. Covers were laid for 102 guests.

The luncheon speaker was Dr. Irene T. Meyers, dean of women at Occidental college. Dr. Remsen DuBois Bird, president of Occidental, was the afternoon speaker. He took as his subject "Education for Democracy." A delightful piano solo by Mrs. Walingford and a song by Miss Harriet McConnell, accompanied by Mrs. Raynod, were much enjoyed, following which there was regular business meeting of the club.

WHO IS GOD? IS SERMON SUBJECT

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Says All Supreme Is Full of Love, Justice, Judgment

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church on the subject "Who Is God?" He said:

"'God is love.' These are three of the most wonderful words handed down to man. Always men and women have been asking, Who is God? Does God care? Prove that, and we can face anything. The poor untaught savage sees the storm with fear, a helpless victim out in the open, afraid of God. Are you afraid of Him, questioning if He, full of great things, can care for every detail of your life? The confidence of this will fill you with assurance. The world is full of fear of a hard God.

"We open the pages of the Word and first thing we see 'God is love.' But people go through with their scissors cutting out every thing besides this, and so leave a gospel that is false. And others say, looking at the wonders of the universe, He is Wisdom. But after all else, He is a God of love. This contains everything.

"Where is God? 'Our Father who art in heaven,' but also everywhere, and He hears all, everywhere.

"A good many people tell us, I worship the God of nature. Is that so? Do you know your God of nature has no mercy? Comes a snake and bites you, you die. A wild beast tears you to death. A splendid strong fellow goes out into the water, a rip tide seizes him, he drowns. That is the god of nature,—no mercy. You come home to rest, smell smoke, fire, your house is burned. You are caught and killed in an instant. That is your god of nature. Is that all the god you want?

Old Civilizations.

"Are you satisfied to pin your faith to a god of force? Go back to the old civilizations—there are plenty who are harking back to them now. The Egyptians, the Babylonians, the Hindus, the Norsemen—they had preposterous mythologies concerning their gods and the origin of all things.

"Go back now to Genesis. 'In the beginning God created,' the God of wisdom and love created. Here we part company with all false religions. We come back to God the Author and Finisher, and we are hid with Christ in God. This God of love has a world full of mystery; yet, nevertheless, all things work together for good to them that love Him.

"But withal, He is a God of justice and judgment. He has a right and a left hand, and on His left is fire prepared for the devil and his angels. He cannot be a God of love if He is not also a God of justice."

Clara's Attorney In Final Plea Today

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13. — Asking for a straight verdict of acquittal for Clara Phillips, on trial for the "hammer murder" of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, Defense Attorney Herrington, in his final argument to the jury, today sought to put the prosecution on the defensive by accusing Peggy Caffee, state's star witness, of the crime.

"The prosecution has failed to prove that Mrs. Phillips committed this murder," Herrington argued. "There was only one other person who left the scene of the crime alive and that was Peggy Caffee."

Herrington asked that Mrs. Phillips be acquitted outright, instead of by reason of insanity.

The insanity plea took a secondary position in his argument, as did the plea of justification under the "unwritten law."

Maintaining that Mrs. Phillips' story of the murder is upheld by the evidence, Herrington said there was nothing except the testimony of Mrs. Caffee to show that Mrs. Phillips struck Mrs. Meadows with the hammer.

He defended Mrs. Phillips' "I don't remember" story, claiming that she suffered an epileptic seizure while she and Mrs. Meadows were fighting.

Many a man who eats pie with a knife wishes that he had an axe.

CHANGE NOTED IN WARFARE ON EVIL

Rev. H. C. Mullen In Sermon Says Church Must Dig to Win Over Evil

"The plan for spiritual warfare in the great cities has changed as much as modern warfare," declared Rev. H. C. Mullen yesterday morning at the Pacific Avenue Community Methodist church.

"It is no longer a warfare against sin in the open," he continued. "Evil has digged in, and so must the church. If it does not entrench today, it will not survive to conquer tomorrow. The strategy of the church cannot be for the moment, but for the years. Business is thinking in long term leases, while the church plans for the day. This does not encourage the laying of fundamental and permanent foundations upon which spiritual institutions can be builded, that through the years will influence life for righteousness and make our modern cities the cities of our God.

"Our American cities are not only big, and Bohemian in their life but are becoming paganized.

"The protestant church has a record in dealing with the religious problems of the city that is far from creditable. For years the protestant church in the city has retreated in the face of the oncoming tides of foreign populations, and the challenge presented of Christianization and Americanization has been answered by retreat.

Old Time Program

"The church has failed in the great centers because the city has grown modern and the church has refused to adapt its program to the changing life. In many places the church is still trying to carry forward the same program it did fifty years ago.

"The modern city presents the problem of Americanization and Christianization. Here are the congested foreign quarters, the alien populations, the squalor and vice, wretchedness and woe of the millions.

"Here life is the most strenuous, social vices predominate, sin militant. Here political intrigue and corruption abound; anarchy and bolshevism run rampant. Here social wrong and injustice are aggravated and intensified by causes and grievances growing out of our economic and social systems, and the inherent selfishness of the human heart.

"Here, too, is the lure of the great city, drawing to itself multitudes of young men and women, who think to make their fortunes, but more likely to find the grave of all that is highest and best in life. City life, especially for the young, is made perilous because their pleasures and recreations are commercialized. Has the church any duty to meet in the face of these conditions?

Earthquake's Dead May Be Thousand

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13. — With from 1,000 to 2,000 reported dead or fatally hurt and many hundreds of others painfully injured, the Chilean government today concentrated all its activities toward giving relief to the districts devastated by earthquake and tidal wave.

Thousands are homeless in the Tacna-Arica districts and further south along the coast where the Pacific inundated vast areas and further inland where the earthquake shook down towns and villages.

Communication with some districts is still cut off today, making it impossible to obtain details of the calamity and to give a definite estimate of the dead.

Vessels reported by wireless that small fishing villages at some places on the coast had disappered.

For fear of pestilence the corpses are being buried in some districts as quickly as discovered without awaiting the formality of identification.

No further disturbances have been reported. Scientists think that both the quake and tidal wave were caused by the eruption of an ancient volcano at the bottom of the Pacific.

Give the man the earth—he reaches for the stars.

'OXY' TIGERS' ADD ANOTHER WIN TO SEASON RECORD

Defeats Redlands Saturday Afternoon In Decisive Football Match

Saturday afternoon, Occidental stepped up another rung on the conference championship ladder when it defeated the University of Redlands 29 to 0.

Although the "Oxy" Tigers were not playing their best brand of football, they scored steadily at the rate of one touchdown per quarter. The Bulldogs had a stronger line and made more yardage than their rivals, but Coach Pipal's eleven was much speedier and more accurate in executing difficult plays.

Occidental scored in the first ten minutes of battle via Captain Corey's famous boot which netted the Tigers a field goal from the thirty yard line.

The first thrill of the afternoon came a few moments later when Orgue picked up a fumbled punt and raced across Redland's home line. The second quarter brought out the best forward passing that Occidental has been guilty of this season. After being penalized severely, it was up to the Tiger machine to recover lost ground. The result was a series of well executed passes which took the ball far down the field and enabled Ebers to deposit the oval on the proper spot for another touchdown.

Receives More Grief.

In the second half, "Oxy" handed the sorrowing Bulldogs another large dose of grief. Third quarter hostilities were growing dull when Redlands aspired to do a little forward passing of their own, which, however, was not productive of the gratifying results that attended similar Tiger ambitions earlier in the game.

Walker walked into a long pass and galloped thirty-five yards for an extra seven points for Occidental's decisive lead. As the end of the fourth quarter was approaching, the rooters were brought to their feet for the last time when Redlands indulged in one of her famous fumbles and Occidental made one of her renowned recoveries, making the final touchdown.

Eskimo Quits After Visit In Ice Box

LOS ANGELES.—Back to the land of the midnight sun and his igloo in the snow fields along the Bering sea, speeds Nemo Glooglique, Eskimo chieftain, today, having left Los Angeles with the vow that he will never again return. And thereon hangs a tale which Glooglique unfolded to Deputy City Prosecutor Edward J. Rodden, when he sought to obtain a warrant for the arrest of a North Main street lunch stand proprietor.

Glooglique said he came to Los Angeles after having prospered in the far northern lands from the sale of seal furs to traders, from whom he learned to speak English a la Eskimo. He said he came to bring back to his people the ways of civilization.

But it is hot in Los Angeles, Glooglique said, so hot, in fact, that he almost smothered. Then the lunch stand proprietor, where he ate his daily meals, he said, offered to let him occupy a cell of a refrigerator which he, the lunch stand man, had leased from a butcher shop. There he remained, he said, during most of his stay in the city, seeing practically nothing of what he came to see.

Glooglique said the original agreement was that he was to pay $25 a week rent for his "ice box apartment," the lunch stand man to provide him with a large chunk of ice daily, so that he might sit in cooling comfort in his refrigerator cell during the "heat" of the day.

After the first week, he said, the lunch stand doubled the "rent" on him, and failed to provide him with ice. Also he alleged he was charged exorbitant prices for his meals. To cap the climax, he implored the lunch stand man to get him a chunk of choice whale blubber, a dish which he said he relished more than any other.

$50,000,000 Moved Via Busy Streets

CHICAGO.—Two hundred and fifty tons of money, worth about $50,000,000, have been moved through the streets of Chicago's congested downtown district within the past few days, it was learned today with the announcement of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank that it has completed moving all valuables from the old home to the new $7,500,000 building at La Salle and Adams streets, where it is now installed.

The new treasure house, protected by 3,500,000 tons of steel and the enormous masses of reinforced concrete has storage room available in its vaults for all the gold of the Federal Reserve system, more than $3,000,000,000, should an emergency ever arise to make its transfer advisable.

The bank has a total gold reserve of about $517,000,000, but most of this had been kept in Washington because storage facilities in the old building were not available. A large part of this gold will eventually be returned to Chicago and stored, it was announced.

If you were ever to undertake to count them you would find that there are about 556,000 seeds in a bushel of wheat.

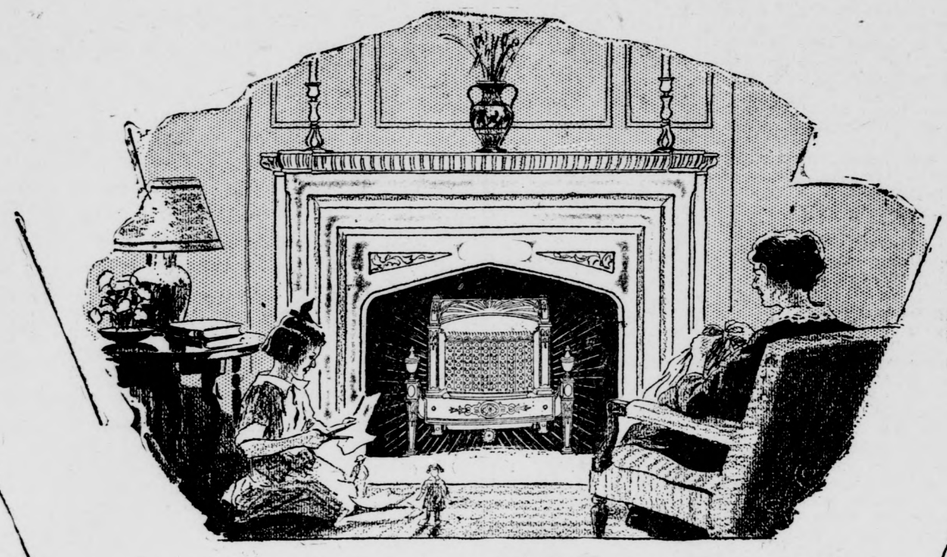
We Recommend the Following:



Radiant Rays Will Revolutionize Your Fireplace

When you know that Radiantfire can send its stream of warmth through the thickest block of clear ice, you immediately appreciate the revolutionary nature of this new type of fireplace equipment.

For here is a discovery which will give you the same kind of heat you get from the sun, and transmitted by the same agent—the Radiant Ray. And the practical result? Ninety percent of your heat projected straight out into your room, instead of up your chimney, where it has always gone before.

Also, because it generates its heat from gas—natural or artificial—Radiantfire is smokeless, sootless, ashless, safe, and always under perfect control. It give off no odor and improves ventilation.

Modernize your fireplace with Radiantfire. The installation will cost no more than the renewal of your old fixtures. And Radiantfire will burn for hours at the price of a shovelful of coal. There are styles for office and shop purposes as well as for the home.

Let us tell you all about Radiantfire and will show you the wide variety of models in which it is provided.

SPEAKER TELLS OF CHURCH'S 'PERIL'

Many Religious Leaders Aid Devil, Says Rev. Brooks, In Talk to Class

"From Eden to the present the devil's work has been to belittle sin!" exclaimed Rev. Keith L. Brooks yesterday morning in the council room at the city hall before the Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church.

"There are a lot of people today helping the devil in his chief and earliest work in man. The modernist, who makes light of sin's guilt and the necessity of Christ's atoning and regenerating work in the heart of man is blowing up the deepest foundations of the Christian life. No wonder we have waves of crime when church leaders deny the Bible teaching as to sin and so let down the bars that have caged tigers and hyenas in human form."

"Explaining sin away will never put it away—Jesus Christ is the only savior from sin. He is not simply a help to a world in trouble but the world's only and all-sufficient hope.

"The peril to Christianity in John's time was not pagan assault but those professing to accept the substance of Christianity then so interpreting the facts as to destroy the whole meaning of the gospel. They offered a scientific explanation of the gospel of Christ and then proceeded to evaporate the gospel into thin air.

Peril of Church Today

"John first set his readers right by going to the roots of the sin question. He shows that sin cannot be denied and that it is wilful departure from the will of God and Jesus Christ is the only cure for it. Light views of sin always result in a weak conception of God and wrecked spiritual life.

"Conscience and universal experience prove that sin is here. Men may belittle it, try to forget it, treat it as imagination or disease, but the grim reality will assert itself and compel acknowledgment of its hateful power. Sin is a problem for science, an enigma for philosophy; but the Christian believer may look the facts in the face, for he has a savior who gives the victory over sin."

CHURCH AND ITS MISSION, IS TOPIC

Dr. James Winnard In Sermon Explains Some Fallacies for Congregation

"The Mission of the Church" was the topic discussed Sunday morning at the Tropico Presbyterian church by Dr. James S. Winnard.

"Just to get some popular fallacies out of the way," he stated, it may be said that the church is not a terminal station at the end of the line of the Heavenly Railway. Nor is it even to be considered as a waiting room. It is not a shield for our misdeeds nor a cloak for unrighteousness. Nor is it an ark in which we may seek refuge to escape the storm of sin.

"But it is a divinely appointed means to an end, and that end is the salvation of the world. The church is the greatest moral and the only spiritual force on earth. It is an army commissioned to conquer and by the grace of God it will do so.

"But it must be up and at it all the time. Our part cannot be delegated to another. God has said to each one 'Go'! Indifference or hesitation or disobedience is dangerous. We should look for, instead of shunning, opportunities for helpfulness.

Discusses Method.

"The method is not a matter of such great importance. The fact of a soul saved is the great thing. If one cannot bring that soul to Christ perhaps four may do it and to be one of the four is worth while.

"Nor does the size of the church count for so much. The great idea is that we must be faithful. We may be ranked as a small church because of our numbers, but there is no reason why we should not be ranked a great church because of our mission.

"And it is true that our mission is as great as the strongest.

"There are three things that will govern and control our activities in and through the church: Our love and loyalty to Him who was sent us; our love and loyalty to those to whom he has sent us; and our appreciation of the fact that the soul out of Christ is lost.

"God does not ask many questions, but those he asks must be answered. His first was, 'Where art thou?' His second was, 'Where is thy brother?' and again He asks 'Why stand ye here all the day idle?' To this question the church of today must give answer."

AMERICAN LEGION ATTENDS SERVICE

Patriotic Meeting at M. E. Church Attended by the Local Post

About twenty-five of the members of the American Legion were in attendance at the patriotic service held in the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday night. The music was exceptionally fine. Miss Isgrig whistled, "There's a Long, Long Trail;" Mr. Clarke sang Land of Mine," and a double quartet rendered "Christ in Flanders."

Mr. Rasmus Jr., spoke on the subject— "America, Yesterday, Tomorrow." He said in part:

"The world needs the gospel, the glad tidings of good cheer. We have many reasons why optimism and cheer should prevail in the United States instead of pessimism and despair. First, may we turn our faces toward yesterday. America fought the good fight for something worth the fighting for. Her part in the world war was that of the humanitarian, the savior. This should be a matter of cheer.

Source of Great Cheer.

"It should be a source of great cheer to our nation that in every period of reconstruction God has raised up some organization in whom all lovers of good citizenship may place implicit trust. In whom can we place more trust or expect more from than the lads who loved honor, liberty and justice so well that they considered any personal matter secondary in order that they might preserve a nation's traditions and honor?

"The American Legion embodies this spirit and has in its membership these men. This organization will be one which shall help to lead us up to the new dawn.

"We should be of good cheer because the greatest apostle of good cheer which the world has ever known was on our side in yesterday's battle, and will be with us in the tomorrow which is to be. Surely, we can see His hand in the victory that is ours.

"There is no gainsaying the fact that it is usually darkest just before dawn. The waters of world powers seem darkened and troubled, but faith in the Christ should help us to believe that perhaps it is dark because we stand on the threshold of the dawn."

Dr. Rasmus, pastor of the church, gave a short speech of welcome to the men of the American Legion, and Rev. Harley G. Preston, chaplain for the Legion, led in prayer.

Pacific-Southwest Review

California's excellent highway system is a factor of very great importance not only in making this state a delightful place in which to live and a mecca for tourists, but also in the efficient marketing of its products. Because of the importance of agriculture in this state, it is difficult to fully realize the tremendous value of our highway system, a brief study of which, particularly with regard to the southern half of the state, should be of interest to anyone engaged in business in this territory.

There are approximately 3,000 miles of paved highway in this district so placed that practically all productive districts are connected by paved roads. Active construction work on still further important highways is already under way.

An idea of the location of these roads may be gained from the fact that Los Angeles county has 635 miles of paved roads; more than any one of the other thirteen counties in the southern half of the state. San Bernardino county, the largest county in the United States, has 315 miles of paved roads. The remaining twelve counties of the southern half of the state, according to mileage of paved roads, are as follows: Tulare, 303; Fresno, 240; Kern, 235; Riverside, 228; Orange, 217; Ventura, 194; Santa Barbara, 186; San Diego, 157; San Luis Obispo, 125; Imperial, 125; Inyo, 16.

Although there is an important state highway system built by the state of California, every county in the southern half of California save one has assisted considerably in the construction of paved highways. In Los Angeles county, 438 miles of paved roads were built by the county itself, and this proportion holds true for practically every county in this section of the state.

The mileage of paved roads is, of course, exceeded by that of unpaved, or so-called secondary roads. The county rankings of total mileage of roads, irrespective of class of construction is based on the size of the county and the density or sparsity of population. San Bernardino county ranks first in total highway mileage, primarily because of its great size. The population of the county is comparatively sparse, and there are many miles of mountainous territory within its boundaries.

The Pacific-Southwest is making rapid strides in agricultural production. This growth will demand more and more improved highways. Further, this territory has not even approached the peak of its prosperity and growth. People from the east and the middle west are flocking to the Pacific-Southwest in ever-increasing numbers. This fact means not only more pleasure vehicle travel over our highways, but also more industrial and agricultural activity, and thus heavier traffic over our roads. Our highways must be constructed to meet the demand of this increased use. The statement has been made that the Pacific-Southwest is destined to be not only one of the most populous regions in the United States, but one of the greatest producing centers on the American continent. There is every reason to believe that this prediction will be fulfilled. The highway system must keep pace with this growth.

The samurai conferred together for a moment, then one of them called out that they did not believe her, that Oda Iseka, son of Oda Yorimoto, was safe in the village.

"Wait!" replied the girl. "We will show him to you," and turning to Byrne she asked him to fetch the youth.

When the white man returned with the boy in his arms, a wail of mingled anguish and rage rose from the natives.

"If you molest us no further we shall not harm him," cried Barbara, "and when we leave your island we shall set him free; but renew your attack upon us and this white man who holds him says that he will cut out his heart and feed it to the fox," which was rather a bloodthirsty statement for so gentle a character as Barbara Harding; but she knew enough of the superstitious fears of the ancient Japanese to feel confident that this threat would have considerable weight with the subjects of the young Lord of Yoka.

Again the natives conferred in whispers. Finally he who had acted as spokesman before turned toward the strangers.

"We shall not harm you," he said, "so long as you do not harm Oda Iseka; but we shall watch you always until you leave the island, and if harm befalls him then shall you never leave, for we shall kill you all."

Barbara translated the man's words to the mucker.

"Do youse fall fer dat?" he asked.

"I think they will be careful t omake an open assault upon us," replied the girl; "but never for an instant must we cease our watchfulness for at the first opportunity I am sure that they will murder us."

They turned back to Theriere now. The man still lay, unconscious and moaning, where Byrne had deposited him. The mucker removed the gag from Oda Iseka's mouth.

"Which way is water? Ask him," he said to Barbara.

The girl put the question.

"He says that straight up this ravine behind us there is a little spring," translated the girl.

Byrne lifted Theriere in his arms, after loosening Oda Iseka's feet and tethering him to his own belt with the same grass rope; then he motioned the youth up the ravine.

"Walk beside me," he said to Barbara Harding, "an' keep yer lamps peeled behind."

Thus, in silence, the party commenced the ascent of the trail which soon became rough and precipitous, while behind them, under cover of the brush, sneaked four trailing samurai.

After half an hour of the most arduous climbing the mucker commenced to feel the effects of loss of blood from his many wounds. He coughed a little now from the exertion, and when he did the blood spurted anew from the fresh wound in his breast.

Yet there was no wavering or weakness apparent to the girl who marched beside him, and she wondered at the physical endurance of the man. But when at last they came to a clear pool of water, half hidden by overhanging rocks and long masses of depending mosses, in the midst of a natural grotto of enchanting loveliness, and Oda Iseka signaled that their journey was at an end, Byrne laid Theriere gently upon the flower-starred sward, and with a little, choking gasp collapsed, unconscious, beside the Frenchman.

Barbara Harding was horror-stricken. She suddenly realized that she had commenced to feel that this giant of the slums was invulnerable, and with the thought came another—that to him she had come to look more than to Theriere for eventual rescue; and now, here she found herself in the center of a savage island, surrounded as she felt confident she was by skulking murderers, with only two dying white men, and a brown hostage as companions.

And now Oda Iseka took in the situation, and with a grin of triumph raised his voice in a loud halloo.

"Come quickly, my people!" he cried; "for both the white men are dying," and from the jungle below them came an answering shout.

"We come, Oda Iseka, Lord of Yoka! Your faithful samurai come!"

CHAPTER XIII

A Gentleman of France

At the sound of the harsh voices so close upon her Barbara Harding was galvanized into instant action. Springing to Byrne's side she whipped Theriere's revolver from his belt, where it reposed about the fallen mucker's hips, and with it turned like a tigress upon the youth.

"Quick!" she cried. "Tell them to go back—that I shall kill you if they come closer."

The bok shrank back in terror before the fiery eyes and menacing attitude of the white girl, and then with the terror that animated him ringing plainly in his voice he screamed to his henchmen to halt.

Relieved for a moment at least from immediate danger Barbara Harding turned her attention toward the two unconscious men at her feet. From appearances it seemed that either might breathe his last any moment, and as she looked at Theriere a wave of compassion swept over her, and the tears welled to her eyes; yet it was to the mucker that she first ministered—why, she could not for the life of her have explained.

She dashed cold water from the spring upon his face. She bathed his wrists, and washed his wounds, tearing strips from her skirt to bandage the horrid gash upon his breast in an effort to stanch the flow of lifeblood that welled forth with the man's every breath.

And at last she was rewarded by seeing the flow of blood quelled and signs of returning consciousness appear. The mucker opened his eyes. Close above him bent the radiant vision of Barbara Harding's face. Upon his fevered forehead he felt the soothing strokes of her cool, soft hand. He closed his eyes again to battle with the effeminate realization that he enjoyed this strange, new sensation—the sensation of being ministered to by a gentle woman—and, perish the thought, by a gentlewoman!

With an effort he raised himself to one elbow, scowling at her.

"Gwan," he said; "I ain't no boob dude. Cut out de mush. Lemme be. Beat it!"

Hurt, more than she would have cared to admit, Barbara Harding turned away from her ungrateful and ungracious patient, to repeat her ministrations to the Frenchman. The mucker read in her expression something of the wound his words had inflicted, and he lay thinking upon the matter for some time, watching her deft, white fingers as they worked over the scarce breathing Theriere.

He saw her wash the blood and dirt from the ghastly wound in the man's chest, and as he watched he realized what a world of courage it must require for a woman of her stamp to do gruesome work of this sort. Never before would such a thought have occurred to him. Neither would he have cared at all for the pain his recent words to the girl might have inflicted. Instead he would have felt keen enjoyment of her discomfiture.

And now another strange new emotion took possession of him. It was none other than a desire to atone in some way for his words. What wonderful transformation was taking place in the heart of the Kelly gangster?

"Say!" he blurted out suddenly.

(To Be Continued)

The labor of 1000 men for 267 years is estimated as what would be necessary to earn two years' fire loss. The figures are based on a loss in two years by fire of $1,000,000,000 and wages at $1.50 per hour and a forty-eight-hour week.

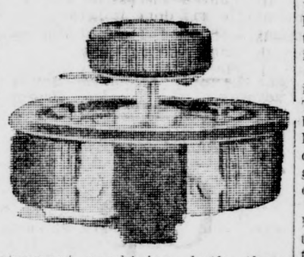
PANEL RH EOSTAT

The experimenter who constructs his own equipment generally finds great pleasure in culling the market for just the right type of unit. Filament control rheostats are essential to a receiver or amplifier and should be selected primarily for rugged construction, and secondarily for compactness in design. As the rheostat is constantly handled the former consideration is important, while the second is necessary if the set is to occupy the smallest possible space.



The illustration depicts an instrument combining both these important features.

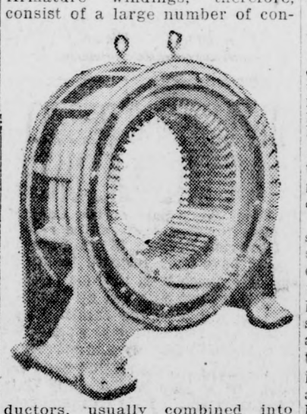
A COIL WOUND ARMATURE

The electromotive force developed in one conductor of an ordinary generator is only a volt or two, not enough for practical use. Armature windings, therefore, consist of a large number of conductors, usually combined into coils (see Fig. 1) of several turns each, which are pushed into slots in the face of the armature core and then connected by soldering. The joints have to be carefully covered with tape or other insulating material.



The coils are made with copper wire covered with insulation (usually cotton) wound to a proper shape on a form, wrapped with tape, and finally covered or impregnated with an insulating compound. The core slots are often lined with heavy paper or fibre. After being placed in on the core the coils are held by wedges of fibre or wood driven into the tops of the slots.

The core is built up of thin, flat sheets of soft iron or steel, ring shaped, with teeth on the outer edge. Enough sheets are stacked up to make a cylinder of the length desired. Occasionally a separator is included to provide air ducts for ventilation. The three dark rings around the core in Fig. 1 show where the ducts are. The teeth are carefully lined up and the spaces between them become the troughs or slots of the windings.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BUNNY'S SNARLS

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along, wondering what sort of adventure would happen to him, he reached a little house in the woods, and inside the house the bunny gentleman heard some one crying.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, twinkling his pink nose. "That sounds like trouble! I wonder if I could be of any help?"

He hopped a little nearer and the crying sounded louder. Then from a window that was open to let in fresh air, Uncle Wiggily heard a voice saying:

"Oh, Bunty, please stand still! I'll never get your fur combed out for school if you don't stand still!"

"Boo hoo!" sobbed the crying voice. "How can I stand still when you pull my fur until it hurts? The comb hurts me!"

"That's because your fur is all snarls," went on the first voice. "You must have twisted it in the night, for your fur is full of snarls. It is the snarls that hurt you, Baby Bunty!"

Looking through the window of the little house in the woods Uncle Wiggily saw Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady, combing the fur of Baby Bunty, the cute little rabbit girl.

"What's the matter in there?" asked Uncle Wiggily as once more he heard Baby Bunty sobbing.

"Oh, good morning, Uncle Wiggily!" grunted Mrs. Twistytail. "Perhaps you could help by telling Baby Bunty a story while I comb the snarls out of her fur. She says I hurt her."

"And so you do!" cried Baby Bunty, who had come to spend a few days with Mrs. Twistytail. "Maybe you don't intend to hurt me," said Baby Bunty, "but that comb pulls something terrible!"

"It's her snarls," whispered Mrs. Twistytail to Uncle Wiggily. "If you'd tell her a story maybe she wouldn't think of the pulling I must do to get the snarls out. If I don't get them out soon she'll be late for school."

"And that must never be," said Uncle Wiggily. So he sat down in a chair near Baby Bunty and told her the story of the Three Little Pigs. And Baby Bunty liked the story so much that she didn't cry any more, not even when the comb became tangled in her snarls and when Mrs. Twistytail had to pull quite hard to get it out.

"My! I never saw such snarls in all my life!" grunted Mrs. Twistytail when the last one had been combed out. "You have lovely curls, Baby Bunty," she went on, "but they surely were tangled this time. There now, run on to school!"

Baby Bunty gathered up her books and was about to hop on to the hollow stump school when the pig lady looked at the clock and cried:

"Bless my dusting brush! ! ! It's nine o'clock now, Baby Bunty! You're late! It took me longer to comb out your snarls than I thought and you're late!"

"I don't want to go to school late!" cried Baby Bunty. "All the other children will look at me funny like and the Lady Mouse Teacher will make me stay in."

"What am I to do?" asked Mrs. Twistytail. "It was all on account of your snarls. You may tell the Lady Mouse that."

"Oh, I don't want to!" cried Baby Bunty.

"I'll do it," offered Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go to school with Baby Bunty, and I'll tell the Lady Mouse Teacher just how it was. What is more, I'll take with me the comb to show her just how the snarls had to be combed out. Come on, Baby Bunty."

All smiles now, Baby Bunty took hold of Uncle Wiggily's paw and hopped with him to school. In his other paw Uncle Wiggily carried Mrs. Twistytail's comb to show to the Lady Mouse Teacher. Though really I think he needn't have done that. But it's a good thing he did, as you shall see.

All of a sudden, when Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty were nearly at the hollow stump school, out from the bushes jumped the Fuzzy Fox.

"Oh, ho! Ah, ha!" howled the Fox. "I am in luck this morning! I shall have four ears to nibble!" and he looked at Baby Bunty's and at Uncle Wiggily's. The bunny gentleman's pink nose began to twinkle, but as Baby Bunty looked at the long, fluffy tail of the Fox, which was as big as a dusting brush, Baby Bunty cried:

"Oh, Mr. Fox! Your tail is all in snarls! You never could nibble ears with snarls in your tail Uncle Wiggily," said Baby Bunty, winking her eyes at Mr. Longears, "comb the snarls out of the tail of the Fox, and comb every one out! And I don't care how hard you pull!" she whispered.

He pulled so hard.

"Oh, ho! I see!" chuckled the bunny. He walked toward the Fox with the comb. "You must let me take the snarls from your tail before you nibble any ears," said Uncle Wiggily. He put the comb in the thick fur of the Fox's tail and pulled so hard, as it tangled in the snarls, that the Fox gave a howl and a jump. Away he ran with the comb caught in his tail.

"Oh, wow! Oh, wow! Oh, wow! Oh, wow!" howled the Fox. "Oh, how you pulled!"

And so he didn't nibble any ears that day, and the Lady Mouse Teacher excused Bunty for coming late after Uncle Wiggily had told how it happened. And if the rubber ball doesn't bounce through the hole in the fence and tickle the cow so she blows her horn and awakens the goldfish, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's pumpkin seeds.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

THE PREVENTION OF DIABETES MELLITUS

In my articles on boils recently, I told you that among the diseases which lower the tissue resistance, diabetes is foremost. I also told you that diabetes is very prevalent in the Jewish people, and that I would tell them why and how to prevent it later.

But, first, why are the Jewish people so subject to diabetes? For this reason: There is not a more friendly or hospitable people in the world than the Jewish people. Always, as a mark of their hospitality, you must eat and you must have good things to eat. They set what we call an unusually good table. Their foods are very rich and delicious. They use a great deal of lovely unsalted butter, fried dishes, sweet and sour cream, nuts and sugar. Ergo! They become obese. Ergo, they are prone to diabetes.

The time in my life that I was heaviest was when I was superintendent of a Jewish hospital in Los Angeles. When the patients' friends and relatives found out that I liked their dishes, never a day but what some of the most delicious things were brought to me. And I et 'em. And I digested 'em. And I got fatter'n fatter.

Possibility of Preventing Most Cases of Diabetes

There are probably more than half a million diabetics in the United States. Therefore it is proper at the present time to devote attention not alone to treatment, but still more, as in the campaign against typhoid fever, to prevention. The results may not be quite so striking or as immediate, but they are sure to come and to be important.

The Relation of Obesity to Diabetes

The association of obesity and diabetes has long been noted. A few years ago an analysis of 1,063 of my own cases showed that in more than 40 per cent of the number marked obesity preceded the outbreak of the disease, and the prediction was made that if more exact data were available the percentage would be fully twice as great.

Diabetes—A Penalty of Obesity

Diabetes, therefore, is largely a penalty of obesity, and the greater the obesity, the more likely is nature to enforce it. The sooner this is realized by physicians and the laity, the sooner will the advancing frequency of diabetes be checked. The penalty of taking too much alcohol is well known, and a drunkard is looked on with pity or contempt. Rarely persons who become fat deserve pity because of a real tendency to put on weight despite moderate eating, but usually most should be placed in somewhat the same category as the alcoholic. In the next generation one may be almost ashamed to have diabetes.

It is all nonsense to use polite terms for being "just fat." Fat diathesis! Granted there is one person in a thousand who has some inherent peculiarity of the metabolism which has led to obesity there are 999 for whom being fat implies too much food or too little exercise, or both combined.

The tendency to diabetes appears to be congenital. It is most intense in childhood; but, escaping that period, the individual is less likely to acquire the disease if he remains underweight, whereas in the obese the tendency finds a fertile soil. In the fat the predisposition may be no greater, but the external cause is more provocative.

Nervous excitement or nervous strain has also been considered a factor in the etiology of diabetes. It is notable, however, that soldiers returning from the front did not show sugar in the urine. About 40,000 passed through the hospital center in France Where I was consultant; yet, though the urines were systematically examined, but two cases of diabetes were discovered.

WORLD'S HOSPITAL SKYSCRAPER

The tallest hospital in the world is to be erected in New York City between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. The corner stone was laid on November 5. The structure, which will be the tallest hospital building in the world will cost about $3,000,000, exclusive of the land.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

SHE FOOLS HERSELF.

"I'd love above anything on earth to write," an admiring reader once wrote to the Author-man, "but I simply cannot get the time."

In the same letter she told about certain activities she was engaged in, she was rehearsing for some dramatics, planning an entertainment at the Church, and entertaining the bridge club to which she belongs.

"So you see I am a very busy woman," she ended.

He saw that. But he also saw that she was fooling herself when she said she would like above everything to write.

What we really want most in this world we usually get.

What She Really Wanted.

That woman wanted most to play a part in the life of the community. No reason that she shouldn't, a perfectly laudable ambition. Very possibly she will give more joy that way than if she really did spend her time in writing. But when she says she wants most of anything in the world to write, she is mistaken.

I know a woman who earns her living by working nine hours a day and then comes home and writes in the evenings. That woman evidently does want to write more than she wants anything else in the world. And I know she is going to succeed because she can't help it.

Half of any success consists in knowing what one wants most in life. When fate says: "Which hand will you take?" You cannot say: "Both."- Many of us try to, with the result that she does not give us the full measure from either.

Not Spoken Prayers.

"Be careful what you pray for," said Emerson, "for all sincere prayers are granted."

He didn't mean what you pray for when you kneel down at night, but what you pray for all day long with your heart and mind, what you admire, what you think worth giving time to.

We all fool ourselves more or less about such things. We could have done this or that if we had had better luck, if circumstances had been different. But while circumstances do affect what we make of ourselves, we give circumstances the power over us by our affections and desires.

Why He Succeeds.

I know a man, who with no large talent to start with, has made a success as an illustrator. He has done it because that success meant more to him than anything else on earth, more than the claims of any conventions, more than his own pleasures, more than any tie or affection. I suppose to almost all successful men their work does mean that, when you come right down to it. And it seldom does to women. Which is why women, even with equality of opportunity will not make the success in the business and professional world that men do—at least not until their characters have had a few centuries to change in.

It's a great thing to really know what you want most in life. "The world stands aside for the man who knows where he is going." And the man who has studied his own desires and knows what he wants does know where he is going.

What do YOU want most in the world?

Glendale Exchange Opens November 15

Glendale women who are clever with the needle or brush or who are especially good cooks are going to have the opportunity to sell any of their products, according to the announcement of the opening of the Glendale Ladies' Exchange November 15 at 225 East Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sloan, recently from Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. J. E. Dunlop are the proprietors of the new shop and they plan to handle all goods on a commission basis.

"We are anxious to get our business established by the holiday time," says Mr. Sloan, "for we are confident that there are many Glendale women who can furnish us with attractive things for the Christmas trade. We have investigated exchanges in other cities and are sure such a business will be a big success in Glendale."

Mr. and Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. Dunlop leased their store room on East Broadway through the O. F. Kroehle Realty company of 225 East Broadway.

Bread Shortage in Paris Is Predicted

PARIS.—The shortage in this year's wheat crop doubtless will cause an advance in the price of bread in France. The price at present is one franc and five centimes per 2.2 pounds and is fixed by the government.

YOUR SKIN TROUBLE IS BELOW THE SURFACE

Weekly Health Talk No. 7
By Drs. Eble and Eble, Chiropractors

The skin is clear and velvety when bodily conditions are right. Soap and cosmetics cannot prevail where the underlying health conditions are bad. A good skin is an asset to man or woman.

When there is a spinal bone displacement affecting the spinal nerves to the kidneys there is nearly always some form of skin trouble present. The kidneys practically control the action of the pores. A big contributor to bad skin conditions is constipation. But primarily skin troubles are due to kidney troubles and when there is Bright's Disease, for instance, you see the extremely poor skin condition.

Uncle Ben says: "Ef there's a chiropractor in town, Nevvy, then time spent feelin' bad is time wasted."

Well After Two Years of Experimenting

"For two years I suffered with chronic appendicitis and kidney trouble and was in a dropsical condition. I tried everything but without benefit until I was urged to see a chiropractor. Today I am greatly improved, have lost fourteen pounds of the dropsical flesh and my skin has cleared. I recommend chiropractic spinal adjustments to all sufferers from a trouble such as mine."—C. N. Beauty Chats

by Edna Kent Forbes

TAR APPLICATIONS

One of the very best treatments for a stubborn case of dandruff is a tar application. Some beauty shops sell tar preparations in bottles all ready to be applied to the scalp. If you can get these you will find them convenient and not very expensive. If you cannot, however, you can fix the tar for yourself.

Buy a little bit of just ordinary black sticky tar. One woman I know gets it from a builder and roofer, though most drug stores will carry it in some usable form. Heat a few ounces of olive oil, as much as will almost fill the bottle you decide to use for the tar. Add the tar to the hot oil and stir with a small stick until it melts and blends. I can't give you exact proportions, so much depends on the thickness or stickiness of the tar that you've bought. The result will be a black looking mass of about the consistency of thick syrup.

A Tar Application Cures Dandruff

This should be kept and used as needed. When ready for the shampoo pour a little tar mixture into a warm saucer and dip into it an old toothbrush. Part the hair and rub the brush along the parting. Part the hair in another place a few inches away and rub again. Do this until you have completely covered your scalp with the tar preparation. It will wash off because you have used only a small amount of tar to a large amount of olive oil. These proportions are, I should say, from one-eighth to one-quarter as much tar as oil.

When the scalp is thoroughly covered let the tar stay on for about ten minutes. Then begin to wash, using very hot water and good soap. Castile soap or cocoanut oil soap is always best and particularly good if melted to a liquid. Use the soap several times. Rinse well.

Bobbie.—It is quite a common occurrence to have the ends of the hair dry up and split after a summer's exposure to strong sunshine. Braid the hair in many small braids and then ruff out the ends by loosening the plaits. Clip or singe these broken ends. Repeat this procedure every week until you have finally caught most of them.

Kitty T.—When the hands and feet are inclined to get cold it shows that your circulation is defective and that you are possibly in need of building up. Aim to counteract this tendency by keeping the feet warm overnight, even though you must take a hot water bag to bed; or wear very loose woolen stockings during the night.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

OATMEAL GEMS: Put two-thirds of a cup of rolled oats in a bowl and pour one cup of scalded milk over them. Let stand five minutes. Add three tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder and one and one-half cups flour, which have been sifted together; mix thoroughly, add one egg well beaten; beat well. Fill well-greased gem pans two-thirds full and bake in a hot oven twenty-five or thirty minutes, according to size of pans.

TOMATO SOUP (without milk) Put one quart can of tomatoes in a sauce pan and add two cups water, one teaspoon salt, one slice onion, bit of bay leaf, four cloves and twelve peppercorns; Cook twenty minutes. Strain; add one teaspoon sugar and one-eighth teaspoon soda. Blend two tablespoons flour with two tablespoons melted butter, then add one cup of hot tomato mixture, a little at a time until well blended. Stir soup while adding gradualy the flour mixture, boil five minutes. Strain and serve with croutons.

BROILED DEVILED BEEF: (A left-over) Cut into thin slices the roast beef left over. Put two tablespoons butter in a bowl and stir into it one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, one-eighth Worcestershire sauce, and the yolk of one egg. Mix well and spread a very little of the mixture on both sides of each slice of beef; gently roll in fine bread crumbs; arrange on broiler and cook two minutes on each side. Serve hot.

POTATO CROQUETTES: Wash, peel and cook six medium-sized potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and press through potato ricer, or mash them very fine. Season with salt and pepper, add one whole egg and one tablespoon butter. Thoroughly mix. Divide the mixture into six equal portions roll them in rounds, cylinders, or other preferred shape, roll in flour; place in well greased shallow pan, spread a few drops of melted butter over each roll, and bake in a hot oven ten minutes. Serve hot.

APPLE CHARLOTTE: Put one and one-half cups tart apple sauce in a well buttered, shallow pudding dish. Remove the crusts from four slices of soft, stale bread, butter them generously, cut in triangles and arrange on top of sauce as closely as possible. Sprinkle with one-third cup sugar and bake in a moderate oven until bread is browned, about twenty minutes. Serve with cream. (Stale cake could be used in place of the bread, in which case, less butter and sugar could be used.)

Book Reviews

There is an excellent opportunity now at the Glendale branch library at Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard to study the relation of religion and science. In his book entitled, "In His Image," William Jennings Bryan presents the view opposed to the theory of evolution, while Sir Oliver Lodge in "Man and the Universe" discusses the other side. In the three volumes of "The Outline of Science," edited by Prof. J. A. Thompson, will be found the very latest word of the exact sciences in regard to evolution.

Among other non-fiction books which have recently been released for distribution at the branch library are included the following:

"Asia at the Cross Roads," by Powell; "Revolt Against Civilization," by Stoddard; "Mysterious Japan," by Julian Street; "Ballads of a Bohemian," by Service; "The Motor Camping Book," by Jessup; "Caruso and the Art of Singing," by Fucito; "Real Ghost Stories," by Stead; "Marooned In Moscow," by Marguerite Harrison; "Christian Education in China," report of the Educational Commission; "The Library of Historic Characters and Famous Events," in twelve volumes. This set is so thoroughly indexed that it makes a valuable enclyclopedia of history.

Interesting books of fiction offered include "Foursquare," by Grace Richmond; "This Freedom," by A. S. M. Hutchinson; "Certain People of Importance," by Kathleen Norris; "The Vehement Flame," by Deland; "Babbitt," by Sinclair Lewis; "Cow Country," by Bower; "Judith of Godless Valley," by Wilsie; "Quo Vadis," by Sienkiewicz "The Heart of the Desert," by Wilsie; "The Dark Mirror," by Vance; "Martin Pippin in the Apple Orchard," by Farjeon; "The Heart's Country," by Vorse; "The Soul of a Bishop" and "The Wife of Sir Isaac Harmon," by Wells; "David Balfour," by Stevenson; "Just Between Ourselves," by Warner.

Charles H. Cushing, librarian in charge of the branch library, extends an invitation to all children to attend the story hour which is held every Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Miss H. Hartwig.

It's A Fact

255,266 QUIT JOBS

More than a quarter of a million — approximately 255,000—railroad workers left service in the national strike last July, according to statistics made public by the Interstate Commerce Commission. This represented the decrease in the actual working forces in maintenance of equipment occupations between June 15 and July 15, but the railroads reporting, which included practically all the country's rail mileage, had in service in the shop crafts on the later date 220,749 men.

The total number of all railroad employes on July 15, as found by the commission, was 1,467,824, or 217,590 less than the total one month before.

PRODUCTION OF LUMBER

Approximately 40 per cent less lumber was cut in Colorado, South Dakota and Wyoming during 1921 than in the preceding year, according to preliminary statistics just released by the department of commerce. These figures are the result of a careful census of the lumber industry in these states conducted by the bureau of census, department of commerce, acting in cooperation with the forest service, department of agriculture.

Lath production fell from a yearly average of about 10 million to 1,228,000 and 368,000 shingles were manufactured as against an average output of 500,000. The total lumber cut for 1921 was 73,600,000 board feet. Western yellow pine made up approximately 69 per cent of this cut, spruce 13 per cent, and lodepole pine 11 per cent, while the remaining 7 per cent consisted of Douglas fir, white fir, and a very smlal quantity of aspen.

The falling off in lumber production in these three states is attributed by the forest service to the general depression in the industry which has particularly affected the larger producers. The output of the small mills is fairly stable, showing a decrease of only 12 per cent from the 1920 figures.

Exports of wheat and flour for August rose in a seasonal movement to the equivalent of 38,964,000 bushels of wheat but were considerably lower than the large total of 66,963,000 bushels exported a year ago. Exports of rye and flour also increased but other grains were exported in smaller quantities than in July. Total grain exports amounted to 60,284,000 bushels, while car loadings increased to 56,177 cars, but declined compared with a year ago. The rice movement was smaller than in August, 1921.

ONE OF A FAMOUS BATTERY FAMILY

WITH the opening of the Sherman-Bond Auto Electric Company, Glendale automobile owners are provided with the famous "Dreadnaught Gould Storage Battery and Service," known the world over for its long life, durability and dependability.

The Gould Battery for automobiles is just one of the efficient members of the Gould family. The Gould automobile battery, with the dreadnaught plates, is built in the same manner as the Gould Storage Batteries that supply power for emergency wireless systems on Uncle Sam's battleships, cruisers and other vessels.

Thousands of motorists know the Gould automobile battery, the battery that demonstrated longest life by owner's records in the recent nation-wide Gould endurance contest.

When the big city power stations are in trouble; when railway lighting generators stop running; when submarines draw on the power that propels them under water—there's a rugged, reliable Gould ready to supply dependable power when power is needed most.

Gould storage batteries supply emergency power for railway and city lighting systems from coast to coast. This service is one of the most critical tests of battery quality. In time of need the current must not fail.

This same quality is built into the Gould Starting-Lighting Battery for your car.

The Sherman-Bond Auto Electric Company are housed in a building constructed with every facility for rendering the best possible battery service. There's a Gould Battery made for every car. Recent tests showed that the average life of Gould Auto Batteries is four years and one month.

You are welcome to call and inspect our plant. We want you to know more about Gould Batteries and Service.

U. S. S. CALIFORNIA ELEVEN WINNERS

Defeats Team From U. S. S. Vestal at Armistice Day Football Match

Fighting valiantly and with an undaunted spirit that is not surpassed even among the best trained college athletes in the country, the scrappy little football eleven representing the U. S. S. Vestal went down to a 59 to 7 defeat at the hands of their rivals—the Flagship California—Saturday afternoon on the local high school field. An Armistice Day crowd of more than 4000 cheering fans was in attendance.

Although they were completely submerged by the impact with the powerful California crew, too much praise cannot be heaped upon the losers, who, despite the fact that they were outweighed almost fifteen pounds to the man, refused to admit that they were "licked" even up to the closing moments of the game.

An illustration of the manner in which the "never-say-die" Vestalians performed under their insurmountable handicap was shown toward the end of the contest when "Gogettum" Baker, who had been playing a wonderful defensive game at fullback all afternoon, fell flat in his tracks in trying to overtake Patterson, the California's fleet-footed right end, who had received a forward pass and was on his way to a touchdown.

Displays Nerve

Upon examination it was found that the muscles in the player's legs had become so completely exhausted that a cramping condition prevented further mobility. A squad of his shipmates carried him from the field. Such an exhibition of sheer nerve is indicative of the indomitable fighting spirit which prevails among Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

As the two squads lined up for the kickoff and the crowd was given its first chance to observe the relative statures of the opposing athletes, a feeling of sympathy at once seemed to prevail "for the little boys in the Black and Orange." But this feeling was quickly wiped out when the California backs lost the ball on downs on the first four plays of the game.

Upon getting possession of the ball "Papoose" Cobb received the ball from center and passed it to De Palma for a ten-yard gain before the Blue and Gold players were aware of what was taking place. Then, after gaining but six yards in three attempts, Cobb kicked to the California twenty-five-yard line, where Kincaid was stopped after turning a complete somersault over a Vestal tackler.

Johnson Crashes Through

After being held to a three-yard gain on as many downs California elected to kick from her own thirty-yard line, but "Johnnie" Johnson crashed through, blocked the punt and ran twenty yards to the first touchdown of the day. Fleming converted with a place-kick.

At this stage of the game both teams were playing a savage, and occasionally ragged, brand of football, with the Vestals outcharging the Blue and Gold in every department of play.

Following the touchdown Captain Saunders of the California "Prune-Eaters" again chose to receive. On the second play, which was a punt, Johnson again lunged his frame in front of the ball. Herman, his fellow flankman, recovered this time and was downed on the California five-yard line. With another score looming De Palma then lost the ball on a fumble, California immediately kicking out of danger.

After about ten more minutes of play, in which neither team became particularly threatening, Ensign McClellan, coach of the Vestals, discovered that no timekeepers had been appointed. As a result the first quarter came to a close after exactly twenty-three minutes of play, which is a considerable increase over the usual fifteen minute period.

Cause of Scores

This brainstorm on somebody's part undoubtedly accounted for the subsequent avalanche of California scores, as the extra eight minutes completely wore down the light Vestal squad.

The California's first touchdown came after about five minutes of play in the second quarter and was the direct result of a beautifully executed forward pass, Fleming to Patterson, in which Patterson was downed on the Vestal 4-yard line. From this point Kincaid crossed the line on an off-tackle buck, Fleming converting via the place-kick route.

California went into the lead a few minutes later when Kauffman, who had replaced Captain Saunders, broke through right tackle in the middle of the field and raced fifty yards to a touchdown, Fleming failed to convert and the half ended with the score in California's favor.

Vestals Tire

The last half of the game relapsed into a marathon race for the California players, it being an easy task to out distance the fast tiring Vestal chargers. The Flagshipmen were able to do as they pleased, making three touchdowns in the third quarter and four in the fourth.

Patterson and Kincaid were the outstanding players on the California team, while Cobb, Johnson and Captain Naigle were the big noises for the losers. Following the game the victorious squad was presented with a sterling silver trophy in the shape of a regulation size football placed on a pedestal. The score and lineup follows:

MULLER, THE ALL-AMERICAN END, IS BACK AT HIS OLD END POSITION HURLING '75 YARD PASSES AGAIN THIS YEAR

Two years ago when "Brick" Muller, the California all-American end, threw a 75-yard pass in a game against Ohio, he not only took the heart out of the Buckeyes but performed a feat that set the whole world agog. They are still talking about it.

California came onto the football map with a bang. Her great team that went through last season without defeat is piling up scores again this year and "Brick" Muller is still throwing passes two-thirds the way across the gridiron.

Charley Erb is also back at quarter and running the team with fine generalship.

Charley isn't a flashy player by any means, but as a defensive performer and at driving a team he ranks with the best. His defensive work calls forth nothing but praise from those who have seen him perform.

This is his last year at college. He is 22 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, and weighs just 155 pounds. Andy Smith, old Pennsylvania star, believes as Fisher does at Harvard, that a quarterback's job is to run a team and not the ball, so Erb fits right in with Andy's scheme of things at California.

The California aggregation will be watched with more or less interest this fall by the whole country as some eastern team will be asked to go west for a game at the Rose Carnival at Pasadena January 1. At this writing there is talk of either Lafayette or Penn State taking the trip to represent the east. California would find a worthy opponent in either of them.

BOXING PROGRAM SETS NEW MARK

Best Ring Show Ever Held In Glendale, Is Verdict of Local Fans

A crowd of several hundred enthusiastic boxing fans and fannettes packed into the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway, at 7 o'clock Saturday night, where they witnessed the best card of four round bouts ever staged in Glendale. The show, which was a part of the local Post's Armistice Day program, was put on under the management of the Modern Woodmen of America, who graciously turned over all of the funds to the Legionnaires' sick fund.

Of the three main events the feature proved to be the battle between Walter Dodge of Glendale and Jack Price of Los Angeles. These boys, who weigh 145 pounds, had met four weeks previously when the bout was awarded to Price as a result of Dodge breaking a bone in his hand. In the return go Saturday night the Angeleno clearly outpointed the local man in two rounds, broke even in one and lost the other to Dodge, but Referee Black evidently saw differently and awaarded the decision to Dodge. A draw would have been an extremely liberal decision.

Johnny Myers, Glendale's "fighting fireman," succeeded in taking the decision from "Chic" Watson, also of this city, in their bout, although both men were rapidly tiring when the gong sounded.

Results in Draw.

Joe Kelly, the clever mitt artist of the Central Athletic club, battled to a draw with his heavier opponent, Ted Southerner of the Columbia Athletic club. Kelly came back strong in the last two rounds after being knocked to the canvas for the count of eight in the second period.

Other bouts on the card resulted as follows: Young Harry outpointed Frankie Miller of Los Angeles by a series of body punches, "Kid" Riggi won on a technical knockout over Battling Roselli in the second round of their scheduled four round bout. Kid Sardine outpointed Joe Burns, while Indiana Joe whipped Kid Mareka in a wild-eyed slugging match.

In an exhibition wrestling bout Joe Kelly won from "Hot Dog" Weiner, former 135 pound champion of the Olympic Athletic club, on two straight falls. Both were obtained through arm-lock holds.

LOCAL TEAM NOW HOLDER OF TITLE

Lightweight Squad's Great Work Cops Honors for Another Year

In a preliminary to the navy game here Saturday afternoon Coach Howard Butterfield's Glendale high school lightweight football team won its second consecutive Central league championship in as many years by walking over the Citrus Union eleven in a 31 to 0 game. The contest was all Glendale from the start, the first touchdown being bucked over by White after four minutes of play. From then on it was a case of gaining ground in any desirable manner, although straight football was responsible for a majority of the scores.

In attempting to select the individual stars on the Red and Black squad is but to name all eleven of them. Although the backfield would naturally receive the plaudits of the onlookers it could be observed that the line was at least as strong offensively and defensively, if not stronger, than the backs.

Time after time Coach Butterfield's forwards broke through and nailed an opposing Citrus back behind the line or blocked a punt. So good were they at blocking punts that but two of the "Lemon's" kicks sailed over the line of scrimmage unhampered by an ever-present Red and Black jersey.

Special mention should be given to White and Roberts in the backfield, and Jeter and McIver on the line, for Glendale. Those who showed up above the average for Citrus were Fullback Hosfeldt and Left Tackle Lopez.

The lineup:

Glendale	Pos.	Citrus
McIver	R.E.L.	Wolfe
Burns	R.T.L.	Beatty

Do you remember a year ago this week?

That Watson M. Washburn, for several years a national ranking tennis player, landed a job with Uncle Sam as assistant to the under secretary of the treasury.

That Aldrich, captain of the Yale football team of 1922, was the biggest individual point scorer of any player.

That the late Walter Pomeroy, holder of the record for the cross Golden Gate swim was awarded an honorary life membership in the Olympic club of San Francisco.

That George Chaney of Baltimore knocked out Phil Salvadore of California at Philadelphia in the third round of a scheduled eight-round bout.

That abandonment of the "blind draw" was first considered by the United States Lawn Tennis association. The sealed draw" subsequently was adopted.

That nominations for the Pimlico Futurity for 1923 and 1924 closed with more than 800 weanlings named for the race next year and well over 1300 mares named for the 1924 event.

That Babe Ruth mailed his answer to Judge Landis' questionnaire regarding his participation in the famous post season barn storming tour which he subsequently undertook and for which he was heavily disciplined.

That Secretary Weeks informed Gustavus Kirby, president of the American Olympic committee, that the war and navy department were disinclined to affiliate with the movement for organizing an American Olympic association, but would cordially support a project for a "nation-wide federation" of all amateur sport and physical education.

That Johnny Buff, bantam weight champion, retained the title at Madison Square Garden by receiving a decision over Jack Sharkey in a 15-round bout.

That boxing promoters, managers, boxers, seconds and fans met in New York to form a state organization. Billy Gibson presided.

That Harry Goelitz, former University of Illinois track star, and member of 1920 Olympic team, had his leg crushed by a road roller.

That Harry Greb won from Billy Shade at Pittsburg by being awarded the decision in a ten-round bout.

That Joe Stetcher of Omaha was given the decision on points in a wrestling match against Charles Peters.

That President McCarthy of the Pacific coast league announced a bonus plan would be put in effect for the winning clubs, all but the team placing last to participate.

That Yale defeated Princeton at New Haven by a score of 13 to 7; Chicago 14, Illinois 6; Wisconsin 7, Michigan 7; Harvard 9, Brown 7; California 72, Washington 2.

Coast Games Result About As Predicted

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Football ran true to dope Saturday.

California overwhelmed Washington university, but Coach Bagshaw's proteges showed visible improvement over last year.

Stanford succumbed to the powerful attack of University of Southern California, but fighting with true Cardinal spirit held the Southerners to one touchdown.

In winning Saturday University of Southern California advanced a step further to the goal of representing the west New Year's day against Penn State. If Stanford next Saturday can defeat Washington university, the Los Angeles institution will have a clear title to the honor.

University of Oregon is evidently building a formidable football team under "Shy" Huntington's watchful eye. Their clean cut, 13 to 0 defeat of Washington State indicates their strength.

Quarterback Dies Result of Injuries

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—The body of Andrew Lang, quarterback of the University of Pennsylvania freshman football team, will be sent to his home in Binghampton, N. Y., from here today. Lang died yesterday from injuries received in a game with Mercerburg.

Lang was 19 and immensely popular. He died game, Coach Jack Keogh said. His last words were those he uttered when told his team had beaten Mercerburg—"Atta boy."

Carpentier Anxious to Meet Siki Again

PARIS, Nov. 13. — Georges Carpentier, who lost his title of light heavyweight champion of Europe to Battling Siki, the negro, today appealed to the French boxing federation to reconsider the penalty vacating Siki's title and barring him from the French prize ring for nine months.

Carpentier said that if the federation would lift the ban he would fight the negro again in an effort to regain his title.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

"Well, he recovered his fumble," is the excuse one constantly hears being made in extenuation of this most deadly of all football lapses. Whether or not a fumble is recovered makes little difference. Nine times out of ten it means a distinct loss of territory, not to mention the fact that it is open to the other side to regain possession of it. There has been an unusual amount of fumbling, but in view of its frequency, it may be said that costly fumbles have not been very numerous.

Statistics show that in one game there were eleven fumbles made. In another nine. This is a very big number. Also, in these games it showed that of eight fumbles made by one team it was regained six times, but the aggregate in yards lost as a result imposed a mighty severe penalty.

Since we wrote a few days ago that the season thus far has been unusually free of football fatalities, there have been three deaths in various parts of the country directly traceable to the gridiron game. All sportsmen deplore this, but when it is considered that tens of thousands of young men and boys of the hundreds of colleges and the thousands of schools are not only playing matches every Saturday, but are regularly practicing through the week, the number of casualties really is almost nil.

Those who are not in the know have an idea sometimes that the practice games of a football team during the week do not endanger the men to the extent that the matches do. As a matter of fact I believe that there have been more hurts sustained in practice scrimmages than in regular matches. Of course, this is natural enough, inasmuch as there are five practice games to one match game, but even figuring it out on a ratio, I believe there are less hurts sustained in regular competition.

Nine out of ten football players will tell you that they find the practice games, as a rule, harder than the matches. This is because there is not the excitement of the crowds that keep the men up to concert pitch and on their toes. There can be no question that the man who plays the hardest and makes no attempt to save himself, is the man who is going to get through with the least injury to himself. Thus, there may be a tendency in a practice game to conserve oneself for the matches, and then comes the trouble. Just why the harder a man goes into the fray and at the same time saves himself may perhaps be explained by the fact that the other fellow gets the worst of the bump.

Billiard Stars to Start Big Contest

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — The greatest array of billiard stars that ever took part in a championship will begin competition here tonight for the 18.2 balk line title. In the opening match, Jake Schaefer, who won the title from Willie Hoppe last year, will meet Erick Hagenlaschger, champion of Germany.

The remaining entries include Willie Hoppe, Eduardo Horemans of Belgium, champion of Europe; Roger Conti, champion of France, and Welker Cochran, the young American expert.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Battling Siki, having attended to the business of self-elimination, it is now proposed to bring Joe Beckett, the British tanglefoot, to New York for a bout with Tommy Gibbons within a matter of months.

The winner is to be given a match with Jack Dempsey, according to the plans of Tex Rickard.

That seems reasonable. So does yellow fever.

Gibbons' record would seem to indicate that he is the sort of American stoker who came up out of the engine room some nights ago to knock out the esteemed heavyweight champion of Germany.

Let him now prove that he is a better man than Beckett, the deep sea diver. This done, Gibbons will have earned his chance with Dempsey, according to Rickard.

Of course just to make the qualification more certain, they might try Gibbons out against Tut Jackson, Farmer Lodge, Fatty Arbuckle, Paul Whitman and other citizens of embonpoint. Anything, in fact, that might contribute to the fact of Gibbons' general worthiness.

Beckett, of course, would be the clincher. He is the heavyweight champion of England, which means that he is reasonably certain of beating almost any welterweight who happened to have an off-night.

He could not last a round against Carpentier, who was knocked out by Dempsey in four rounds; therefore, if Gibbons is the winner, there will be nothing for it but to match with the champion.

It will be one of those fights that "the public demands."

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Casa Verdugo M. E. church will hold an all-day meeting Wednesday of this week at the home of the president, Mrs. John W. Cotton, of 1137 San Rafael street. Final arrangements will be completed for the coming bazaar that will be held early in December.

Mrs. Lilian M. Judd, who has just moved into her new home that was recently completed at 1137-A, San Rafael avenue, was surprised Friday night by a number of intimate friends and relatives who called to assist in a housewarming. Mrs. Judd was the recipient of several nice presents in honor of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Van Horbeck of 1121 Viola street, entertained very pleasantly at dinner Sunday night in compliment to their son Ralph. Covers were laid for Miss Evelyn Hunt, Miss Margaret Longley, Miss Winifred Parker, Robert Roach, William Shinner, Ralph Van Horbeck and the host and hostess.

Testimony Conflicts In Murder Inquiry

BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 13.—A sensational conflict in testimony developed today in the investigation of the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and the choir singer, Mrs. James Mills.

Mrs. Nellie Lowe Russell, a negress living near Mrs. Jane Gibson, self-claimed eye-witness of the tragedy, reiterated her story that Mrs. Gibson was calling at her home at the hour on the night of September 14 when Mrs. Gibson claimed to have seen "the woman in gray" and a man companion at the scene of the crime and heard shooting.

Mrs. Russell's story, told in affidavit form, has been turned over to Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott, by Timothy N. Pfeiffer, counsel for Mrs. Hall, the widow. It is a direct challenge to the truth of Mrs. Gibson's story and, if it is proved true, will deepen the mystery which already has baffled the detectives for more than eight weeks.

Mrs. Russell said that at about 9:45 o'clock on the night of September 14 she was preparing to go to bed and was winding her alarm clock when she heard a dog barking and upon going to the door, saw Mrs. Gibson. She said that they sat down and talked for about fifteen minutes, Mrs. Gibson telling of the theft of her dog.

Mrs. Gibson refused to see reporters when they called at her home to question her regarding Mrs. Russell's affidavit.

Alleged Slayer of Oakland Man Taken

OAKLAND, Nov. 13.—A warrant charging Jack W. Allen, local furniture salesman, now held in custody, with the murder of Nick F. Dabelich, Oakland restaurant proprietor, whose body was found in Los Angeles a week ago, is being brought to Oakland today by a Los Angeles detective who will take Allen to the southern city tonight.

The warrant for Allen's arrest was sworn to by Mrs. Mary Dabelich, widow of the dead man. She went to Los Angeles Friday last to swear to the complaint.

A state wide search is being made today for Russell Wiliam Walker, Allen's brother-in-law, who is wanted for questioning. According to the Oakland and Los Angeles police, Allen and Walker were together on the night Dabelich was murdered.

Deaths and Funerals

RAY A. BORTHICK

Funeral services for Ray A. Borthick, well known Glendale resident, prominent Elk and assistant chief engineer of the county flood control district, will be held at the Elks club house on Colorado street, Tuesday afternoon, November 14, 1922, at 2 o'clock.

The impressive ritualistic service of the Elks' lodge will be conducted by Exalted Ruler A. H. Dibbern and the lodge officers, assisted by Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church. There will be vocal music by Wilbur Herwig.

Burial will take place in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Mr. Borthick's death occurred early Saturday morning following an operation for acute appendicitis.

LOUISE JANE NEWHOUSE

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Newhouse of 1138 North Louise street will be sorry to learn of the death of their infant daughter, Louise Jane, Saturday morning, November 11, 1922.

Funeral services for the child were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock in Forest Lawn Memorial park. The Jewel City Undertaking company in charge.

AGNES M. DEWOLF.

Mrs. Agnes M. DeWolf, well known in Glendale, died this morning, Monday, November 13, 1922, at her home at 2616 Bellevue avenue, Los Angeles. She was 83 years of age.

Funeral will be announced later by the Jewel City Undertaking company.

MRS. ANNA L. WELDON

Mrs. Anna Louise Weldon passed away Saturday afternoon, November 11, 1922, at the home of her niece, Mrs. G. H. Mertens, 1143 North Louise street.

Funeral services are being held at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Monday, November 13, 1922, under the direction of Kiefer & Everick.

Mrs. Weldon was born in Newark, N. J., July 15, 1848, and was 84 years of age. She had been a resident of California for one year.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Kauffmann of the corner of Senora avenue and Fourth street announce the birth of a daughter November 7, 1922.

Turks Beat British Citizens, Is Claim

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Clashes in which British citizens were beaten up by Turks were reported from Constantinople today. General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief at Constantinople, has ordered the withdrawal of the disorderly Kemalist forces that caused the trouble.

The situation of Constantinople continues acute. Panic was reported among part of the population with many civilians in flight.

Although the allied high commissioners have drawn up a proclamation of martial law it had not been put into effect at latest reports.

Owing to the cutting of the Near East cable and censorship many conflicting reports are being received from the Near East. One was that Rafet Pasha, nationalist envoy at Constantinople, had refused to recognize the allies' administration and was overriding the capitulations—the restrictions placed upon the Turks at the end of the war. Reports, however, said the situation in Turkey was more favorable.

General Harrington has refused to recognize the Turkish nationalist government of Chanak, appointed by the Angora government.

The Near East peace conference was to have opened today at Lausanne, Switzerland, and the Turkish envoys already have arrived there. Owing to the dangerous new situation which has developed in the Near East, the allies have agreed that the parley should be continued until next Monday and perhaps longer.

Oil Fire Loss Will Be Several Millions

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 13. — The damage and loss already running into the millions, a fire in the tank farm section of the Humble oil fields was raging unchecked today.

At 7 o'clock this morning two tanks were burning fiercely and officials of the Gulf Production company, who own these tanks, stated nothing could be done to save them.

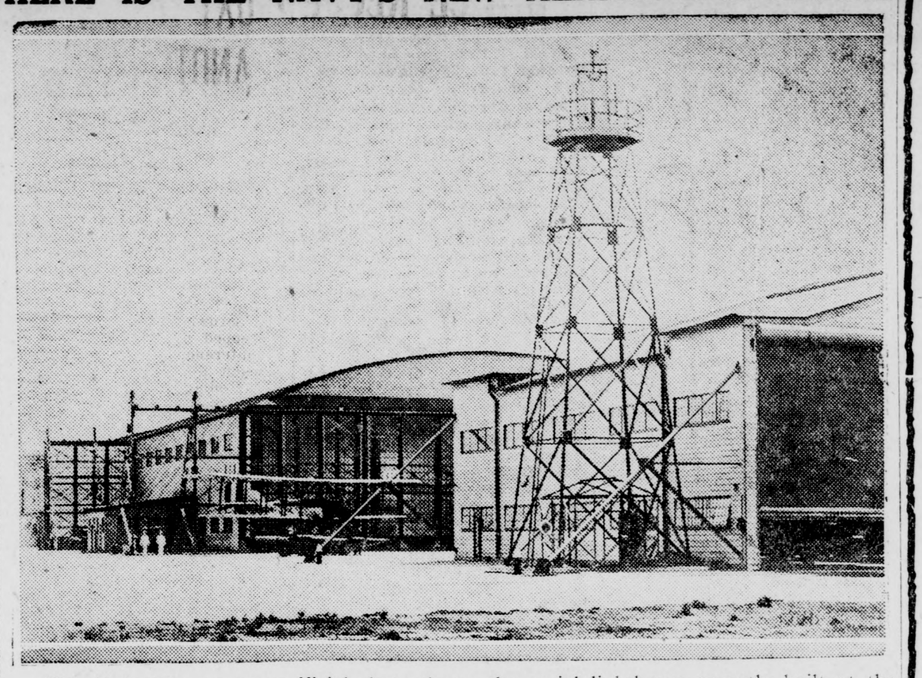
Efforts were being made, with little progress, to pump some of the oil in them to other tanks nearby. This, however, would avail little, it was stated, as the blaze, which was started by lightning at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, threatens all the storage containers in the vicinity. Every tank on the lot is doomed, it was said.

Wise Old Owl Runs Into Burglar Alarm

CINCINNATI.—An owl which flew into the open window of a law office gave rise to a burglar alarm, scared a night watchman half to death and finally was captured by the "burglar hunters" and turned over to the zoo.

The watchman found the owl perched on top of a wondrous law book, looking ridiculously wise considering the foolish predicament into which he had got himself.

HERE IS THE NAVY'S NEW AERIAL LIGHTHOUSE



This United States navy official photo shows the aerial lighthouse recently built at the naval air station at Hampton Roads, Va., to guide the pilots of airplanes at night. The light is visible at an altitude of six miles above the station; by day the platform is a lookout station during flying operations.

BIG REALTY DEAL MADE IN VALLEY

Borgia Brothers Purchase Hartsook Corner In City of Lankershim

One of the largest realty deals consummated in the Lankershim region in months was completed the last of the week when the Hartsook corner at Lankershim Boulevard and Fourth street was sold to Borgia brothers, who own extensive vineyard acreage in this district.

The property involved in the deal comprises a lot 112 by 187 feet. It is improved with the Hartsook building and a residence. It is understood that these buildings will be moved to make room for new structures.

Southern District Business Is Growing

Collector Rex Goodcell has completed a survey of various classes of Internal Revenue tax receipts for October which reflect a steady and increasing expansion of business in the Southern California district.

Although facing a pronounced shrinkage in receipts owing to drastic reductions in rates under the new revenue act, the income tax collections for October were practically the same as the receipts for the corresponding period of 1921. October's receipts were $496,323.82 as against $499,892.17 for last October. This remarkable showing is due to the fact that 47,926 more separate income returns were filed in 1922 than in 1921 and bears out Collector Goodcell's contention that increased business and the acquisition of new and desirable population would virtually offset the shrinkage in revenue caused by reductions in various classes of taxes.

October tax receipts which reflect conditions in every line of business showed steady increases. Manufacturers' tax collections on oleomargarine more than doubled over last October.

That more business was done in bonds, conveyances of real estate and capital stock issues is indicated by an increase of twelve per cent in the receipts from the sale of documentary stamps.

That business is booming in the telegraph and telephone line is shown by an increase of 15 per cent in receipts for taxes on messages.

Collections for the special tax on theatres increased 65 per cent over October 1921, while bowling alleys and billiard halls came to the front with a 33 per cent increase.

Cabarets and roof gardens too, are feeling the expansion in trade for the receipts from admission taxes on this class of resorts jumped 20 per cent.

Even athletic, sporting and social clubs are booming, for the tax collections on dues and memberships advanced 25 per cent.

That more passenger for hire automobiles were in commission in October 1922 than in October 1921, is indicated by an increase in receipts from this source of 50 per cent. The influx of tourists has expanded the automobile hire business.

Collector Goodcell pointed out that the latest survey of income tax receipts shows that California and eleven states pay 95.83 per cent of the total income tax receipts of the government and that the annual revenue collections of California are more than one-third the total amount the new tariff bill is expected to produce for the whole United States.

Church Will Hold Bazaar November 24

Christmas gifts and an old fashioned chicken pie supper have been announced as attractions for the annual bazaar to be held Friday, November 24 by the J. O. C. class at the First Methodist church. Mrs. Lydia Rehberg, the class president, and her committees are completing plans for the affair.

Social Events

FAMOUS SCIENTIST GUEST

Mrs. E. Cleophas and Miss Gertrude Cleophas of 337 North Central avenue, were at home yesterday afternoon to a few friends. The guest of honor was Dr. R. H. W. Albrexstondare, the famous scientist, late of Russia, whose scientific discoveries have been so widely discussed.

During the course of the afternoon, Dr. Albrexstondare very graciously related some of his interesting experiences. Musical numbers were given by Miss Marshall, Mrs. Shawe and Miss Cleophas.

Those present included Dr. Albrexstondare, Dr. Douglas, Mr. Still, Mr. and Mrs. Shawe, Mr. and Mrs. De Lorenzo, Mr. Livingstone, Miss Helen Livingstone, Miss Mina Hellekson, Mrs. Gilchrist, Mr. Hullinger, Mrs. Ruel, Mr. Leif Anker-Holth, Miss Erma Anker-Holth, of Los Angeles, Miss Marshall, of New York, Miss Carrie Sharp, Miss Inez Sharp, Miss Olive Sharp, of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Swartz, Mrs. Mabel Franklyn Ocker, Miss Gladys Hopner, Mr. and Mrs. Straith-Miller, of Glendale.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

Members of the Mary Jane Gillette tent, Daughters of Veterans, are to meet Tuesday night in the American Legion hall on East Broadway. Mrs. Susie Peck will preside over the meeting and there will be balloting on applications, initiation of new members, and making plans for the bazaar to be held November 28.

VOLUNTEER BAND MEETS

The Volunteer Band of the Presbyterian church was delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Mildred Sooy, 208 South Orange street. The house was decorated with flags and crepe paper to represent Armistice Day. A "potluck supper" was served during which a mystery cake appeared. The guests were pleasantly surprised at the discovery of many buttons and safety pins hidden in the cake. During the evening games and music were enjoyed.

Those present were Mrs. Marjorie Smith, Miss Mary Johnston, Miss Margaret Majors, Miss Mary Johnston, Miss Mildred Sooy, Graham Tinning, Harold Majors, Harold Parker, Baxter Andrews, Daryl Parker and Glenn Todd.

ENTERTAINS AT TEA

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ferguson of 525 North Jackson street entertained at tea Sunday night a group of Los Angeles friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Harold Graham, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. McKenna, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Phelps.

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.

Mrs. Nanno Woods is arranging the program for the Glendale Union High school P.-T. A. meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in the cafeteria at the Glendale Union High school. An invitation has extended to all Glendalians to attend.

Preceding the program there will be an executive meeting of all officers and departmental chairmen at 2:45 o'clock.

Prince Pens Warm Letter to Premier

BERLIN — Prince George of Servia addressed the following letter to the Jugo-Slavian Premier, M. Pasitsch, according to the Belgrade paper, Videlo:

"It would be no attraction whatever for me to be the sovereign of a country where you and your son do as you please. I do not want to be your prisoner, like my brother; but as the legitimate son of my father, the late king, I claim that portion of his private fortune which I am entitled to; however, you and your press are busy distorting this legitimate claim in a way, as if I aspired to the throne. I do not—not in the least!

"I call upon you to account for the whereabouts of my deceased father's cashbox containing his last will, in addition to other important documents, as I do not want these documents to disappear like the late king's archives.

"I am sure you will now again send your friends and other persons of doubtful qualities to offer me some shabby amount out of secret state funds in order to make me keep quiet.

"Split it up between yourself and those in whose company you used to spend my money! I shall refuse to accept it!

"I demand nothing but my legitimate share of my deceased father's fortune.

"Go on ruling my unhappy fatherland with your methods—intriguing in all quarters, setting people against each other and bribing them—but don't trouble me with that!

"Please be sure that I despise you from the bottom of my heart!

"GEORGE, PRINCE OF SERVIA."

SONG PROVES POPULAR

The song "Sailing for Somewhere," which is proving so popular at the revival services being conducted at the Central Christian church, was written by John C. Stewart. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Grant Stewart, resides at 549 Oak street, this city. The song by Mr. Stewart has all rights reserved.

Dainty Doll Babies at H. S. Webb Store

Never did the doll subject seem so attractively dressed up for Christmas time as it does right now with a whole crowd of dainty doll babies all ready to step into the Broadway window of the W. S. Webb dry goods store tomorrow preliminary to their sale Saturday at the Tuesday Afternoon club circus at the Elks' clubhouse. The dolls were given by the Webb company to the club and the many clever costumes were designed and made by girls of the Glendale Union High school. Mrs. Earl C. Turner will be guardian angel of the doll booth at the circus Saturday. Until that time the doll babies will entertain in the Webb store window.

Lloyd George Makes Political Address

RHYL, Wales, Nov. 13.—"I'm against both 'stand stillism' and revolution," former Premier Lloyd George told a political audience here today. "They are practically the same thing. Moderate, sensible-working men and conservatives must pull together against Tory 'die hardism' which is the first cousin of revolution."

AGILITY OF A CHICKEN

Jim Hudson says that as long as he has been chicken peddling he has never learned why it is that a chicken makes two scratches with one foot and one scratch with the other and then reverses feet next time.

Revolution Hope Has Faded, Claim

MOSCOW, Nov. 13.—Hope for a world revolution, for which the Bolsheviks have been striving ever since they came into power, has dwindled, it was admitted today by Georges Tchitcherin, people's commissar for foreign affairs in the soviet government.

Tchitcherin was asked today the probable effect of the United States election upon Russia's American relations, but declined to do so. He said, however, that the new American tariff would help Russia by diverting European exports to Russia instead of to the United States.

Earth Is Senior of Sun; Expert Says

LONDON.—That the earth is older than the present structure of the universe, as now constituted, is the theory held by Professor A. W. Bickerton, the originator of the theory of the birth of stellar systems and the writer of innumerable books about the "third bodies" born in space by grazing impacts.

Lecturing before the Royal Botanical society, he said that he was strongly inclined to believe that the earth was much older than the sun and much older than the present structure of the universe.

"In my opinion," said Professor Bickerton, "the sun originated in a collision between two other previously existing bodies, one of which had an enormous number of meteors, planets and other bodies revolving around it. I think that sunspots are probably caused by meteors striking the surface of the sun."

Coin Dated 1654 Is Found in Ohio River

EAGLEPORT, Ohio—A coin, dated 1654, was found in the Ohio river here by A. J. Stevens, who was searching the flats for Indian arrowheads. The coin was picked up near where General Morgan and his raiders crossed the river during the civil war. The name of the country issuing the piece of

Invents Heat Ray to Destroy Planes

LONDON.—A method of destroying aircraft at any altitude by means of a heat ray is claimed to have been invented by a Yorkshire research chemist.

Briefly, the experiment consists of liberating gas at any altitude, and then igniting it.

The inventor claims that the ray will be able to be projected in the same fashion as a ray of light is projected from a searchlight, i. e., instead of a ray of light shooting into the heavens the operator will have under control a beam of fire powerful enough to dissolve steel.

Anti-Everything Is Policy of Japanese

TOKIO.—Every movement has a counter-movement in Japan. Students, possessed of more money than is good for them, have organized "extravagance days," which fall on the first and fifteenth of each month, the days that the government has designated as "economy days." A group of scholars and well-to-do business men have organized a movement to offset that of prohibition workers. They held a big mass meeting recently, when speakers orated for hours on the good qualities of the Japanese national liquor, "sake."

Thieves Steal Dogs for Living Rewards

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Traffic in valuable dogs, stolen for the reward eventually paid for their return, is being investigated by the Los Angeles police following reports of the operations throughout the city of fashionably dressed women engaged in the new and highly remunerative crime.

The alleged method of the young women is to drive through fashionable and exclusive residential districts where valuable dogs are known to be, becoming friendly with the animals, spiriting them away and returning them later in answer to advertisements offering rewards.

When rewards are not advertised it is said the women slip the dogs to confederates in other cities, who dispose of them to new owners.

Ohio Strawberries Grow Second Crop

LIMA, Ohio.—A second crop of strawberries is growing in the garden of Robert Beery, thirteen, son of Dr. William H. Beery, of No. 327 Kenilworth avenue. More than a quart of the late crop has been obtained by the boy.

The berries were exceptionally large and of delicious flavor. Recent rains and warm days are said to have caused the plants to bloom and ripen a second time.

MANY REFUGEES FLOCKING TO CITY OF ATHENS

Photo shows refugees from the Near East who have flocked into Athens, the capital of Greece until the city is filled to overflowing. There are no accommodations for these homeless and destitute wanderers and they are gradually filling up the public parks and squares. They sleep in the streets when they can find no other shelters.

Man Bulldogs Buck When His Gun Fails

ARVADA, Wyo. — Becoming provoked at an unmanageable gun, N. P. Brown, member of the Sheridan city fire department, is credited with "bull-dogging" a buck deer in real western style.

Brown cornered the animal in a draw along Powder river, where he was hunting, and succeeded in grasping the antlers of the buck and, after a terrific battle, choking the deer into unconsciousness.

Paris Creates New Fashion Umbrella

PARIS. — That good things come in small parcels is being proved every day in the world of fashion. The Tom Thumb umbrella, just big enough to tuck under one's arm, is becoming very popular. Now Dame Fashion has gone one better and put the most necessary articles into the handle of it.

The smart shops on the boulevards are showing charming silk ones with mother-o-pearl handles. Press a tiny button at the knob and, voila, a fine little mirror with a bit of powder and dainty puff underneath. Off comes the handle and poked into tiny holes one discovers all the essentials —a lip stick, scent bottle and eyebrow pencil.

Hundred Families Forced Out by Fire

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—One hundred families were driven from their homes by three tenement house fires in thickly congested districts early today. One fire on the West Side was marked by thrilling rescue of 20 women and children.

Thirty-two families fled in terror when the blaze was discovered on the roof of the six story house on the lower east side.

Fire which broke out in a laundry in the tenement house section downtown forced more than 200 persons—members of 48 families—from their homes.

Women's Auxiliary Revives New Data

Glendale women, who are members of the Women's Auxiliary of the local American Legion post, are interested in recent statistics showing that national auxiliary has 140,000 members. These represent forty-eight States, Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Cuba and Mexico. The 140,000 women are located among 5,089 posts.

Sunday morning a Kansas woman asked her small son if he didn't want to go to Sunday school and be a good boy. "No," said the boy, "I want to be like dad."

AUTO ELECTRIC CO. OPENS WEDNESDAY

Sherman-Bond Station at 426 S. Central to Have Gould Batteries

For the purpose of introducing the already famous Gould Automobile Battery, the Sherman-Bond Auto Electric company has erected a service station at 426 South Central avenue, which will be formally opened for business next Wednesday morning.

Gould Storage Batteries, according to Mr. Sherman, have been known for years and have been extensively in government use for radio, submarine and emergency power service—a service that unquestionably demands unfailing power and absolute dependability.

Gould storage batteries for starting and lighting automobiles are made with the famous dreadnaught plates just the same as are the storage batteries in large plants of the big cities of the United States, which are used for emergency purposes. In Seattle there is a Gould emergency plant which is capable of furnishing power for the street railway and city lighting system combined whenever necessary.

Have Long Life.

The same quality and dependability are builded in the Gould automobile batteries, it is declared. A recent test conducted by the factory is said to have demonstrated that the average life of the Gould Auto Battery is four years and one month.

Both Mr. Sherman and Mr. Bond are well known in Glendale through their connection with the electrical and auto repair business. Their plant is modern in every respect and equipped with the apparatus necessary to render the public first class service.

Three Persons Hurt, Thrilling Rescues

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Three persons were injured, one probably fatally, and a dozen women and children were saved in thrilling rescues early today in a fire, believed to have been incendiary, which caused $15,000 damage to a west side apartment building.

Fire Attorney Shirley T. High immediately began an investigation. Numerous fires here recently have been charged to the work of a pyromaniac.

Big Snow Storm In Western Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 13.—Western Nebraska is digging itself out of snow drifts today, according to reports at railroad terminals here. Train service is crippled by five feet of snow on the Burlington tracks between Farwell and Loop City. The storm reached as far east as Grand Island and north into South Dakota. High winds accompanied the snow.

LA FOLLETTE IN MILITANT HUMOR

Returns to Senate to Direct Public's Attention to National Issues

By J. BART CAMPBELL
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. — Elated by the election to the senate of several new insurgent progressives opposed to the things political and governmental which he has long fought, Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, is returning to the national capital this week in a militant mood, according to advices received today by his friends here.

La Follette stumped Minnesota for the election of Genrik Shipstead on the farmer-labor ticket. He plunged into the North Dakota senatorial fight in support of Lynn J. Frazier, recalled nonpartisan league governor. He flooded Iowa with personal appeals in behalf of Smith W. Brookhart.

His own re-election to help bring about the election of senators who would most likely stand with him for re-establishment of the excess profits tax, publicity of income tax returns, abolition of the injunction in labor disputes, and restricting power of the United States supreme court to declare unconstitutional laws enacted by congress.

Ready to Remind

The accession to the La Follette group in the senate of such men, while they do not take their seats until the sixty-eighth congress convenes, will spur the fiery Wisconsin insurgent in the final months of the sixty-seventh to frequent reminders to the Republican "old guard" of what happened at Tuesday's election and to battle hard against the ship subsidy bill, the Esch-Cummins law, and other legislation to which he is unalterably opposed.

One of his first acts will be to reopen the Teapot dome investigation. The leasing of western oil lands by the government to private interests and the "surrender of our great natural resources to the Standard Oil and other monopolies," he will once more direct to public attention.

Poison Plot Mystery Under Investigation

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Coroner Peter Hoffman today planned to exhume the bodies of four more suspected victims in Chicago's alleged "poison plot" mystery, which, in the belief of police, has been responsible for the death of twelve persons.

Mrs. Tillie Klimek and her sister, Mrs. Nellie Koulik, are held in connection with the alleged plot on charges of murder.

The coroner, it was announced, intends to exhume the bodies of twin babies and a grandchild of Mrs. Koulik and the body of a former sweetheart of Mrs. Klimek.

The sudden illness of the fourth of Mrs. Klimek's husbands led to the investigation of the poison mystery. The bodies of two of her former husbands whom she is said to have obtained through matrimonial agencies, were exhumed Saturday.

The wings of the common housefly beat about 800 times per second and this carries the fly a distance of twenty-five feet.

NEW BURBANK OIL PLANT OPEN SOON

Builders Estimate Structure Will Be Ready for Use About December 1

The distributing plant of the Associated Oil company at the junction of Olive avenue and the S. P. tracks, Burbank, is rapidly nearing completion. It is now believed that the new plant will be ready for occupancy by December 1.

In addition to the main structure, other buildings are being completed on the grounds, such as garages, offices, etc.

Most of the equipment for the plant is now in transit. Last week an auto truck and trailer was delivered to officials in charge.

Leases Gas Station.

The Lubricating Gasoline company, which has headquarters in Los Angeles, has taken a lease on the gasoline service station of the Cass & Barton Garage, 507 East Fernando boulevard.

C. J. Hare, of Burbank, has been appointed manager of the new service. He announced the last of the week that he believed his company plans to erect a new station here early next year.

Open New Store.

A large room in the Graham-Haefner Building, in Burbank, has been leased for five years to F. E. Hague, of San Francisco. Mr. Hague, who was engaged in the hardware business in the northern city for a number of years, just recently moved to Burbank. He intends to equip his store room with a complete line of hardware goods.

'WORLD'S BETTER,' PASTOR ASSERTS

Dr. Funk of First Lutheran Church Says That Good Has Replaced Evil

An optimistic sermon was delivered yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

"They tell us that the world is getting worse," remarked Dr. H. C. Funk. "Be not deceived for we have no such evils as appeared before the time of Christ. Contrast an old Roman holiday with its inhuman butchery, and blood with a modern anniversary such as the Fourth of July or Armistice Day, and tell me has not the evil been overcome by the good?

"When I see the drunkard's home renovated, the demoniac sitting clothed in his right mind, and see the dumb write; when I hear the blind read and listen to orphan children singing their thankful hymns of praise in beautiful homes that have been provided for them, I think the evil has been overcome by the good. I think that the love that has come down to us from the heart that was pierced on Calvary has come down to us through the ages despite the impediments, worldliness and selfishness of men.

"You have tried to outdo evil with wrong methods a thousand times and failed, but goodness has come with healing in its wings and helped to assuage the woes of mankind."

VAN NUYS VOTES TO SPEND BIG SUM

More Than $100,000 To Be Paid Out for Highway Improvements

Widening of the highway in Cahuenga Pass to eighty feet; the lowering of the grades at the crest to the level of the Pacific Electric tracks, and the repaving of the roadway for a distance of 5,000 feet have been authorized by the supervisors and Board of Public Works, of Van Nuys.

Recommendation for the work projected was presented to the Board of Public Works this last week by John A. Griffin, city engineer. He estimated that the work in the "Pass" will cost about $100,000, which is approximately two-thirds of the amount that the city proposed to expend on improvements.

Some of the principal thoroughfares to be improved include Glendale boulevard, Palms and National boulevards, Western avenue, Indiana street and Alhambra avenue. It is estimated that this work will cost about $50,000.

After Better Train Service.

At a meeting just held by the Van Nuys Realty Board, a resolution was drawn up and adopted asking other cities and towns of the valley to join in a request to the Pacific Electric company for better train service.

The realty men desire a half-hour train service to Van Nuys instead of the hourly service, which is being maintained at present.

Selects Hotel Name.

"The Sylvan" is the name selected by the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce for the new modern hotel building which the Apartment Building Company is erecting in this city. This name was selected out of a total of 125 submitted. Second choice was the name Loma Vista Hotel.

Opens New Store.

H. G. Chaffee & Company has signed a ten-year lease for the south half of the new Granger business block on Sherman Way, Van Nuys.

Preparations are now being made by the firm, which has a large string of stores in California, to open the new storerooms with a complete display of groceries, meats, etc.

Optimistic Van Nuys people claim that the signing of the long lease by the Chaffee interests shows that they have faith in the future of this city.

J. R. Nash Company's New Store Is Open

Attesting the rapid growth and development of the Gateway district and emphasizing its importance as a growing commercial center, is the opening today of the J. R. Nash company's store at 1728 South San Fernando road.

The new store occupies one of the ground floor rooms in the building recently erected in the 1700 block on San Fernando and faces south. A complete stock of men's furnishings, dry goods, notions and shoes for men, women and children will be carried in stock.

J. R. Nash, proprietor of the new store has been a resident of California for the past thirty-five years, but considers Glendale one of the livest towns in the state and having more opportunities for business than any other California town of similar size.

Bridgeport, N. J., claims to be the bachelor paradise.

THEATRES

The Glendale

Nine reels of Charles Ray entertainment is in store for Glendalians attending the Glendale theare today or tomorrow. Charles Ray is entertaining with his late screen success, "A Tailor Made Man," which his producer Arthur S. Kane presents in lavish style. The story, an adaptation of the recent popular Cohan & Harris stage hit by Harry James Smith, proves an admirable vehicle for this popular screen star.

Manager Howe points out that the mere fact it's a Charles Ray picture should bring big crowds to the Glendale both today and tomorrow.

Producer Kane has spared no expense in making "A Tailored Made Man," a most attractive and successful picture.

The T. D. & L.

Manager Ralph Allan begins the week with the following message to T. D. & L. patrons and friends: "'The Cowboy and The Lady', Paramount's thrilling western feature picture with Owen Moore and Mary Miles Minter will be shown for the last time tonight at the T. D. & L. It contains both exciting drama and homely comedy, tells a story of romance and adventure that literally thrills and ends most happily.

"The program has all the cardinal qualities that go to make a good picture, a Harold Lloyd comedy, latest news events and a beautiful scenic.

"Tomorrow, Tuesday, at the T. D. & L. will be featured by Wallie Reid's latest picture, 'Clarence'".
